Researchers request 'open college' for adults

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's much-maligned adult education system should be expanded into an ambitious "open college" with a healthy dose of state money, says a report to the legislature.

The study by a nine-member research team clashes sharply with the views of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who has called for curbs on state support of adult education and questioned its value.

The report did not mention Brown by name but took issue with his contention that educational needs of the young far outweigh those of adults in the competition for state dollars.

"Currently California provides for the 17-year-old to the neglect of the 45-year-old," the report said.

"Having met the needs of young people, it can once again assume leadership in lifelong learning opportunities for adults as well."

A major barrier to that goal, the report said, has been "fairly long-standing opposition in key state agencies such as the state Department of Finance and the office of the Legislative Analyst to state-supported learning programs for adults."

The year-long study, by a team led by Dr. Richard Peterson of the Educational Testing Service in Berkeley, was commissioned by the Joint Legislative Committee on Postsecondary Education.

It called for creation of a "California Open College" with $36 million from the state and $10 million from students. Such colleges are operating successfully in Minnesota and New York, it said.

The college's tasks would include:

—Offering course credit, degrees and occupational licensing credit for non-classroom work, such as military training, job experience and volunteer work.

—Helping students set up their own degree programs, possibly combining conventional college work, special instruction at the new college, independent study and field work.

—Overseeing an extensive network of information and counseling centers on higher education opportunities for adults.

—Trying to extend higher education to millions of adults now facing financial, geographical and other barriers, ranging from minorities to high school dropouts to prison inmates.

The report said a survey showed half of California's 14.7 million adults want some kind of education beyond high school, but only a fourth are now enrolled.

It also cited state forecasts that California's population would age markedly by the year 2000, with the median age increasing from 27 to 35.

Brown has repeatedly attacked what he calls frill courses, like macrame and astrology, and has said the state should make students pay for many now-subsidized adult courses.

The report criticized two Brown administration decisions — a 5 per cent growth limit on spending for adult education, and ending of state support for off-campus degree programs at the University of California and state colleges.

It said part-time adult students pay higher per-unit fees than full-time students, often can't get the classes they want, and are denied access to state scholarships.

The report said adult education also suffers from a lack of child care and transportation and from an attitude of professors at four-year schools that "less status is attached to teaching part-time students."

GOT A PROBLEM?

New York City Mayor Abraham Beame ponders a question Saturday during his appearance before the Senate Banking Committee on Capitol Hill. Beame delivered testimony dealing with his city's financial crisis.

Arms escalation hazardous — Sadat

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat said Saturday that escalated U.S. arms supplies to Israel would be met with a similar buildup of Egyptian guns and that this could produce "very serious" consequences in the Middle East.

"I register my anxiety and objection on any American escalation of arms supplies to Israel which does not fit with its role as peace mediator in the Mideast," Sadat told the People's Assembly, or parliament, at the opening of its new session.

Sadat's warning came one week before his scheduled visit to the United States for talks with President Ford.

"Any escalation would be met with a similar escalation from our side and the consequences will be very serious," Sadat said in a nationwide speech broadcast live on Cairo radio and television.

He said Egypt did not lay down its arms and did not sign any final document for peace with Israel as some Arabs claim.

"We cannot reach a final just peace without our continuous military preparedness," Sadat said.

In an obvious reference to Syria, Sadat called for "hands off Lebanon," saying the fighting there can have adverse effects on all Arab countries.

He said the roots of the trouble in Lebanon are not religious because "all factions lived together for centuries without fighting each other."

Sadat said Israel could find an opening to intervene in the Lebanese crisis that would make the consequences "more catastrophic than that of Palestine" in the 1940s.

He said Egypt is committed to achieve for the Palestinians their legitimate rights and pledged to make 1976 the "year of Palestine."

"We will continue to struggle using all possible means to achieve for the Palestinians their legitimate rights," he stressed.

But he said the Palestine guerrilla movement was being infiltrated and pressured by certain Arab powers — an obvious reference to the Syrian regime of President Hafez Assad.

Sadat and Assad have been at loggerheads since the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli Sinai military disengagement agreement on Sept. 1 under U.S. auspices.

Sadat urged the Palestinians to exercise independence and to "avoid missing opportunities" for partial gains from Israel.

"The Palestinian case has been dubbed the case of forfeited opportunities," Sadat said.

He assailed the Syrian regime, without naming it, and accused it of fomenting a "mischieveous propaganda and harboring ulterior motives."

Sadat reiterated that he had obtained a firm commitment from President Ford to work for an Israeli-Syrian military disengagement agreement in the Golan Heights, patterned after the Sinai accord, and to take a step toward recognizing "Palestinian rights."

He asserted the Sinai accord with Israel included no secret clauses and challenged Syria to prove otherwise. He declared that Egypt was still committed to the ultimate target of total liberation of Israeli-occupied Arab lands.

Six killed in Nebraska town by man armed with shotgun

SUTHERLAND, Neb. (AP) — A man armed with shotgun shot six persons to death late Saturday in this central Nebraska town of 850, authorities said.

Authorities said the shootings occurred shortly after 9 p.m., at a residence.

"I can't tell you much now, but there is a man, and he is shooting people," a deputy told the Associated Press by telephone.

The identities of the victims were not immediately available.

Hospital officials in North Platte said one of the six, a man in his early 30s, was wounded twice in the head, and died a short time after arrival at the hospital.

As sheriff's deputies, aided by the State Patrol, began the search, they urged area residents to make sure their homes were secured, and asked that they not answer their doors without a thorough check of the person knocking or ringing their door bells.

The sheriff's office said a man in his early thirties was being sought. He was described as about 5 feet 9 tall, and was to be on foot, and was last seen wearing a brown and white jacket and blue jeans, officials said.

Congress told NYC won't survive

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Mayor Abraham D. Beame and a panel of bankers told Congress on Saturday that New York City will default by the end of the year if it doesn't get massive federal assistance.

And a spokesman for all U.S. municipalities said that if New York goes under, every city in the nation will find it difficult, if not impossible, to borrow money.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., who presided over the Senate Banking Committee hearing, said the committee would start work Tuesday on a bill to aid the city and predicted it might be sent to the full Senate by Wednesday.

But Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., said he felt Congress was being stampeded into passing an aid bill.

New York barely avoided default Friday when the city's teachers union did an aboutface and agreed to use its pension fund to help refinance $453 million in debt obligations that had come due.

Beame said after that narrow escape that "no additional proof should be needed that the state, the city and our financial institutions have reached the limit of their credit resources."

The president of the nation's largest bank, the San Francisco-based Bank of America, said a new federal agency should be created as a lender of last resort.

This, said A.W. Clausen, would help not only New York "but would also alleviate part of the specter that now hangs over the nation's municipal bond market.

"The necessity of federal support for New York City is neither optional or debatable. Default certainly must be averted in the national interest," Clausen testified.

In large cities across the nation, he said, "the fiscal explosive is remarkably like that of New York City. The fuse in some cities is already alight; New York has provided the warning."

New York Gov. Hugh L. Carey praised Clausen's comments as an "excellent diagnosis of the circumstances that led to the present condition.

"Like any diagnosis, its real value is that it leads to a cure and indeed prescribes one — that the federal government, subject to the proper conditions, come to the aid of New York City," Carey said.

Humphrey begins to settle campaign debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey is moving to settle more than $900,000 in leftover 1972 campaign debts for as little as three or four cents on the dollar.

This means the Minnesota Democrat will be getting what amounts to huge campaign donations, sometimes exceeding $100,000 apiece, from wealthy creditors.

The move appears to be quite legal. The Federal Election Commission has ruled that this year's new ceilings on campaign giving won't apply until 1976 for donations to pay off old debts.

However, official reports of the Humphrey campaign debts omit certain required information, and they conflict with statements by Humphrey's spokesman and by the estate of a deceased creditor.

Quarterly reports to the Election Commission show Humphrey has begun raising money on two fronts. The "Committee for the Re-election of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey" took in $79,000 in the three months ending Sept. 30 for next year's Senate race. The unit had $53,000 left after expenses.

Meanwhile, the long-dormant "Triple H Committee" raised $40,000 in the same period to pay off some $925,000 in debts dating back to Humphrey's aborted attempt to win the 1972 presidential nomination.

Humphrey aide David Gartner said that money would be applied to settle a few small debts for about 50 cents to 75 cents on the dollar. But he said the major creditors would be asked to swallow nearly all their loans by settling for a few cents on the dollar.

"I don't see how in God's green earth we can raise the money to do any more than that," Gartner said.

By forgiving all but a small portion of the debts, the creditors will in effect be donating the remainder to the 1972 Humphrey committees. The Election Commission says it will allow such large debt write-offs until the end of the year.

Human error caused crash

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A Penn Central spokesman says a commuter train engineer disobeyed a signal just before his train plowed into the rear of a stalled Amtrak Metroliner, causing minor injuries to 25 passengers.

Engineer B.E. Jones was removed from service after he admitted he failed to restrict his speed as he approached the Metroliner.

Food stamp program may be changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will ask Congress on Monday for a restructuring of the food stamp program that would aid only people below the official poverty level, it was learned Saturday.

The proposal, which could reduce costs by up to $2 billion per year, amounts to a rejection by Ford of advice from White House aides and Cabinet officials. It comes closest to a bill supported by Sen. James L. Buckley, Cons.-R.-N.Y., and House Minority Whip Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

Republican and congressional sources said the Ford proposal still has to be written in a final draft tonight and could still be changed.

A family of four just above the poverty level of $5,050 would get nothing under the Ford and Buckley measures. The family would get $80 a month in free coupons under a bill introduced by Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., which sets the maximum income for any benefits at $7,776.

Under the current system, persons just above the poverty line get $162 worth of coupons a month if they pay $122 of that amount themselves. The government provides the $40 difference.

Ford's plan, however, would provide considerable increases for people under the poverty level.

A special administration task force had spent months working with Agriculture Department officials and private consultants to put together a measure to revise the 11-year-old food stamps program.

They came up with a proposal much like the McGovern-Dole plan, which hopes to save $1 billion in two years, but not as generous. Since then Michel, a colleague of Ford's in the House, campaigned continuously with Ford for a plan closer to his.

In August, an estimated 18.8 million Americans were receiving the stamps at an annual cost then to the federal government of $5.2 billion plus about $700 million in administrative costs split by the states and Washington.

Ford's proposal, as pieced together from a number of sources, would cut those federal costs by between $1.5 billion and $2 billion per year and eliminate roughly eight million participants.

5 wounded in flareup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In yet another flareup in gang warfare, five youths were wounded, one critically, early Saturday by shotgun blasts fired from a speeding auto, sheriff's deputies reported.

The most critically wounded, Andy Martinez, 20, was taken to Martin Luther King hospital. The other four were hospitalized with wounds ranging from major to minor, a spokesman said.

The shooting took place in an East Los Angeles suburb. Deputies said they had no clues to the identity of the three youths in the car.

According to medical physics professor

Testing of nuclear bombs deadly

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP)—A professor of medical physics contended Saturday at a conference on nuclear reactors that "nuclear energy is unacceptable and incompatible with human life on earth."

Dr. John Gofman, of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore, said five tons of plutonium fallout from testing of nuclear bombs in the atmosphere has caused between 116,000 and half a million people to die of lung cancer since 1954.

But Dr. Cyril Comar, director of environmental assessment for the Electrical Power Research Institute, countered that although nuclear energy is not 100 per cent safe, "based on the relative risks and the relative need for energy it is the most acceptable and economical alternative available to us now."

Nearly 2,000 people in this community of 30,000 attended the second and final day of the scientific debate between supporters and opponents of nuclear reactors.

The crowd appeared to be 2-1 against nuclear reactors, a hot subject locally, but none of the speakers was interrupted. Law enforcement officers were braced for trouble, but there was no incidents.

Pacific Gas & Electric is building two controversial coastal nuclear power plants in Diablo Canyon, about 10 miles from here.

The forum, held in the men's gym at California Polytechnical Institute, was organized after 95 of the 120 medical doctors in San Luis Obispo County raised funds to sponsor the public debate.

Dr. L. Douglas DeNike, coordinator of the Nuclear Initiative Task Force, said he was not satisfied that there were enough backup systems. He cited what he said were numerous instances of safety systems failures at plants across the country that nearly relased radioactive material.

Dr. Lawrence Grossman, chairman of the Department of Nuclear Engineering at UC Berkeley, pointed out that no one has ever been killed in a nuclear accident in this country. He said the technology has improved "to the level that nuclear energy is now as safe as anything we have."

On the subject of waste disposal, Dr. Burt Wolfe, a nuclear physicist who heads General Electric's fuel recovery and irradiation products department, assailed what he called the "linear theory."

He said nuclear critics cite an instance and multiply that instance over the entire population to prove a predicted effect.

"Waste can be practically and economically removed and stored so that the danger is infinitesimal," Dr. Wolfe said.

He suggested the best place to dispose of wastes is in geologically stable salt deposits.

Dr. Leslie Grimm, the only woman on the panel, who has an extensive background in nuclear energy, argued strongly for the 1976 Nuclear Initiative.

She said nuclear waste is extremely toxic, especially plutonium, and stressed that plants to make waste safer have never been proven economincally practical.

"No matter where you put nuclear wastes," she said, "even in salt deposits, the extreme heat, the possibility of corrosion and the geological changes could still expose the population to extreme danger from carcinogens, cancer-causing agents."

Kissinger holds briefing in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held a breakfast conference Sunday with Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa to brief his Japanese counterpart on his eighth diplomatic mission to China.

Kissinger and his wife, Nancy, flew to Peking later Sunday in a special Air Force jet.

They arrived in Tokyo on Saturday night and rested at a hotel. They are to stop over here again Thursday after a five-day stay in China.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the two diplomats also discussed the question of admitting South Korea to the United Nations, negotiations with the Soviet Union on sales of U.S. grain and the economic summit scheduled for December in Paris.

On Friday night, Kissinger reflected official concern in Washington about the health of China's two main leaders, Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, when he said during a stopover in Alaska that his talks in Peking will be based on national interests rather than on relations between leading personalities.

"We are all mortal, but the relations between the People's Republic of China and the United States don't depend on personalities — they depend on the basic interests of both countries," Kissinger said in response to a question about the health of Mao Tse-tung, 81, and Premier Chou En-lai, 77.

"We would think that the main lines of the policies of both countries would continue regardless of who was in office in either country," he said.

Kissinger praised Premier Chou En-lai as "a man of outstanding abilities," but he said he expects to meet with Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-peng, the man who appears to be in direct charge of the government.

Kissinger knows Teng from official contacts over the last year and a half and has a clear idea of his thinking on major issues. A senior official in the Kissinger party said Teng is expected to follow the past Mao-Chou policies of promoting closer U.S.-China ties.

Jackie may lose in NYC

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis would lose $100,000 a year in income if New York City defaults on its obligations, Money magazine said Saturday.

The magazine, published by Time, Inc., said Mrs. Onassis had insisted a multi-million dollar trust fund set up for her by her late husband Aristotle Onassis be invested entirely in New York City bonds.

The fund was established before their marriage, the magazine said, adding that she insisted on buying the city bonds despite the advice of the First National City Bank in New York.

The trust fund now brings her $100,000 a year, tax-free, the magazine said. It reported her total annual income is $341,000.

The magazine said Mrs. Onassis recently has met frequently with a well-known New York gem dealer, Maurice Tempelsman, and suggested she might be considering selling some of her jewelry collection, which is estimated to be worth $7 million.

Couples robbed in parking lot

Pomona police are searching for a man who robbed two couples and held a gun to one victim's head outside Orlando's Restaurant, 1700 W. Holt Ave.

Anthony Chacon, 55, of West Covina, told officers the man held a .38 caliber revolver to his head while robbing he and his wife, Soledad, 53, late Friday night. Also robbed of their wallet and purse were Earl Conklin, 43, of Glendora and his wife, Olga, 52.

Chacon was robbed of about $52, his wife, $104; Conklin, $371 and his wife, $185.

Police said the man, wearing an Afro hairdo, mustache and beard, grabbed Chacon and his wife from behind in the parking lot as they left the restaurant about 11 p.m. The robber was described as between 25 and 30 years old, 5-feet seven, 140 pounds, with dark shirt and pants.

In another similar incident, an elderly couple from Arizona were robbed at gunpoint in their room at the Holiday Inn in Ontario Friday about 7 p.m.

Ontario police said the man and woman, who were on vacation and had stopped in Ontario to rest, were in their room with the door ajar when a man entered and drew an automatic handgun.

He demanded contents of the man's wallet and fled, police said.

The suspect was identified as a Caucasian between 35 and 40, thin with shaggy black hair and a pock-marked face.

'Born loser' is a winner on lecture circuit

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa (AP) — "I'm a loser," the trim, mustachioed speaker told the lecture hall audience. It was no understatement.

Nguyen Cao Ky, former flamboyant flyboy, premier and then vice-president of South Vietnam, has lost both a war and a country and is a stateless refugee in the United States.

But like other notable losers in recent times, particularly those of Watergate notoriety, the youthful-looking Ky is cashing in on his fame on the college lecture circuit.

"He'll probably be just a one-season rock 'n' roll band," said an observer in wondering how long the South Vietnamese leader can keep commanding $2,500 lecture fees from American campuses. A dozen colleges with a lingering interest in Vietnam have signed up to hear him.

But the 46-year-old Ky, who denies reports that he fled Saigon with a satchel filled with $50 and $100 dollar bills, says he has high hopes the fees will keep rolling in. Those hopes are buttressed by his mini-celebrity status on the road.

Bayh unnoticed

In a recent three-day visit to the Midwest, Ky, with his pretty wife Tuyet-Mai on his arm, upstaged two Democratic presidential hopefuls. While the Kys strolled through Chicago's O'Hare Airport shaking hands with wellwishers, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana munched a hotdog unnoticed in a snack bar.

Returning from Des Moines, Ky signed autographs for first class passengers while former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma worked anonymously in the tourist section on his speaking schedule.

Ky told student leaders who met his plane at Des Moines: "If I had known people liked me so much I would have worn my black flying suit, lavender scarf and baseball cap." That was the costume that made him familiar to Americans in the mid-1960s when as prime minister, Ky represented the hopes of American leaders for victory in Vietnam. Ky said this "Captain Midnight" uniform was all that he had managed to save from collapsing Saigon.

The student leaders who have invited Ky to speak apparently expect fireworks. Boston College cancelled an appearance because of student protests. Ky himself acts surprised at the sudden bursts of antagonism that he encounters on campus.

When told that the "Controversial Speakers Committee" that invited him to the University of Northern Iowa had earlier brought to campus leaders of the Klu Klux Klan, the American Nazi party and the militant prostitution movement, Ky looked genuinely shocked.

And he also seems taken aback by the directness and persistence of student questioners. He has learned to rue the day he casually commented to a reporter that South Vietnam needed a dictator who could pull the country together as Hitler did after World War I.

Hitler queries

In two days of campus appearances in Iowa, Ky was asked eleven times "Why is Hitler your idol?"

"Why do you keep asking me that?" Ky finally complained, insisting he was commenting on the methods Hitler used to gather power rather than the way he exercised it.

Students are also not shy of asking Ky about his alleged wealth, and the narcotics business that is rumored to be the source of it.

"I brought $40,000 out of Vietnam with me," Ky told them. "But I bought 14 members of my immediate family with me, also. I am down to $30,000 and spending fast."

He laughed when an elderly woman asked him if he has "a million dollars stashed in a Swiss bank account." Ky replied: "If you can prove I have, I will return and you may shoot me."

"You're evasive," she replied.

Ky denied he was ever personally involved in the heroin traffic that brought drug addiction to thousands of American GIs in Vietnam, but said: "Many were involved, and it was easy for a pilot on a liaison mission to Laos to load up with cheap dope and sell it for a big profit when he got home." It was Ky's continuing close connections with the Vietnamese air force that led to charges he was involved in drug running.

Some Midwest questioners saw Ky as a potential Chiang Kai-shek with aspirations of driving the Communists out of Vietnam one day.

"There is still an active resistance inside Vietnam," he said. "There is conflict between Peking and Moscow, and Hanoi and Saigon. Some day I want to go home. We are working on a plan of action but it is still too early."

As the only former Vietnamese leader appearing in public, Ky is bearing the brunt of the vestiges of the antiwar movement. At Cedar Falls about a dozen people picketed the college lecture hall, one with a sign reading: "Does this murderer speak for the Vietnamese people?" About 800 people attended the lecture.

Some students expressed concern about his safety and mistook two newsmen traveling with him for security guards. "This is America. Even Billy Graham gets threatening calls," said Ky philosophically.

At Cedar Falls, two antiwar militants from Florida invaded a campus press conference and sat behind Ky with antiwar signs, one reading: "No bucks for the baby killer."

When Ky later turned to them, one launched into a tirade that was extremely insulting to the Vietnamese leader. Ky retreated behind an enigmatic smile and ended the incident with the comment: "I thank you for at least accepting dialogue with me. I will never change your mind; you, mine."

The main thrust of Ky's campus remarks, which he delivers in precise, quietly-spoken sentences, blames the Vietnam debacle on the former South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu with whom Ky served as vice president from 1967 to 1971.

It was Thieu's bid for total power in the election of 1971 "that marked the biggest defeat for the non-Communist Vietnamese, and it also marked the beginning of the end," Ky said. Thieu was personally corrupt "and the dictatorship he established was not much different from the Communist one in the North," Ky said.

Ky describes himself as "young and politically innocent" when he was prime minister in 1966 and 1967. But Ky said he was ready to try the job again this past year and had gathered enough support to launch a coup d'etat against Thieu a few weeks before the fall of Saigon. The attempt was stopped by the U.S. Embassy, Ky said.

"I wanted to make a Stalingrad of Saigon," said Ky, referring to the Soviet city that resisted the Nazis. He nonetheless departed Saigon with most other senior officials before the Communist troops arrived.

Ky's audience might be disappointed that he is not as controversial as his lecture agency buildup suggests, but many of the students and the general public who heard him speak in his Midwest tour responded enthusiastically to his comments — comments such as:

— It was President Thieu and "cowardly and corrupt generals" who caused the final debacle.

— American soldiers fought well in Vietnam.

— A "no win" policy was the reason the American military effort turned sour.

Pitches for refugees

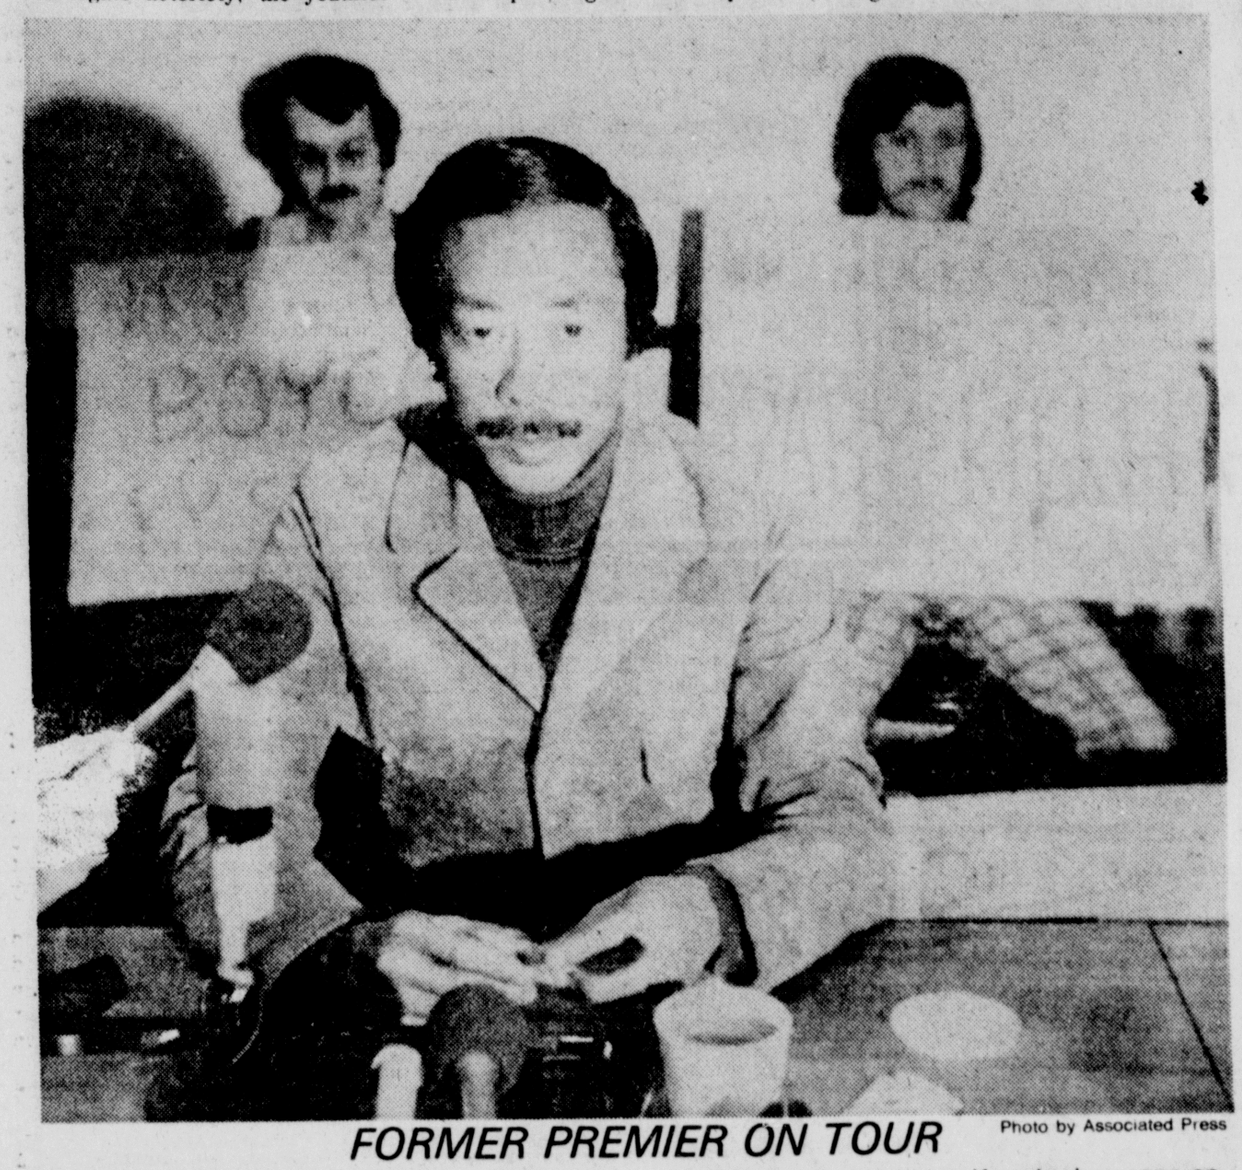

Ky also made pitches for the 130,000 Vietnamese refugees now in the United States, even though he denied he was attempting to become their leader.

"We Vietnamese are the newest refugees in your history," he said. "We know your country is a land of immigrants. Your sons and daughters fought to keep Vietnam free, and we Vietnamese wish to earn your respect and friendship. We wish not to be hawks or doves but eagles," Ky said.

With his audience on his side, Ky got the biggest laugh of the evening in his reply to a persistent questioner who wanted to know why he left Saigon after telling everyone to stay and fight.

"Why did you run away?" the questioner demanded.

Ky replied: "I was fighting for freedom. So I ran away to find freedom in the United States."

Morroccans' march may face blockade

EL AAIUN, Spanish Sahara (AP) — Independence fighters in the Spanish Sahara said Saturday their followers will mass along the northern border to block a planned march by 350,000 Moroccans who claim possession of the disputed West African territory.

"If they finally come, our bodies will stop them," said a spokesman for the Polisario Front, the Algerian-backed group that seeks full independence for the mineral-rich territory that Spain seeks to shed after 91 years of rule.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, the Security Council was summoned to meet Monday on a Spanish request for action to dissuade Morocco from the planned march.

Jaime de Pinies, Spain's ambassador to the United Nations, asked for the urgent meeting. He said, "The announced invasion...beside endangering international peace and security, ignores the rights of the people of the Sahara for self-determination."

From his temporary headquarters in Marrakech, King Hassan II of Morocco announced he was speeding up preparations for the "March of Conquest." He said the vanguard of the marchers will reach the border city of Tarfaya, 60 miles from El Aaiun, by next Thursday.

But he gave no date for crossing into Sahara.

The king announced Thursday that he would lead 350,000 Moroccans, including 35,000 women, into northern Sahara to claim territory he says belongs to Morocco. By Friday, more than 130,000 volunteers reportedly had signed up for the march.

Both Morocco's claim to the phosphate-rich north and Mauritania's claim to the western and southern portions of the territory are rejected by Spain. Madrid wants a national referendum to determine the wishes of the 80,000 residents — most of whom are nomads.

Algeria, which backs the Polisario Front and has Soviet-equipped troops stationed on its 18-mile border with the Sahara, also favors a referendum. Morocco says the Algerians are seeking a weak independent state through which they could get an outlet to the Atlantic and access to minerals.

The Polisario Front spokesman said his organization — illegal until recently — has the support of 75 per cent of the Saharans. He said they could be in place at the border by next Wednesday.

Catholics, Jews top Protestants

NEW YORK (AP) — Jews and Roman Catholics, many of whose ancestors arrived in this country long after the nation's predominantly Protestant first settlers, now outclass Protestants in wealth and education, a new study reported Saturday.

The analysis, made by the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago, says that Jews and Irish Catholics are the wealthiest religio-ethnic group in American society, and also have the most years of education.

In those respects, they are "more successful than the American Protestants which constitute the host culture," the report says.

The study, made for the Ford Foundation, was carried out by a research team headed by the Rev. Andrew Greeley, a Catholic priest. Findings were based on a "composite sample" of 18,000 Americans put together from 12 representative national surveys.

The objective was to determine to what extent immigrant groups which have come to the United States since the Revolutionary War have been able to succeed educationally and economically through opportunities provided in American society as it marks its 200th anniversary.

The study found the average annual income for Jews is $13,340; for Irish Catholics, $12,426; for Italian Catholics, $11,748; German Catholics, $11,632; Polish Catholics, $11,298. Next, in sixth place, are the highest income Protestant group, Episcopalians, averaging $11,032.

Enough fuel oil seen for winter

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The Oil and Gas Journal said recently that there will not be any serious shortage of fuel oils this winter, even if temperatures are cooler than normal.

But, the Tulsa-based oil industry magazine said in its current issue that the interstate gas supply situation is not as well stocked and supplies already are being curtailed in the Southeast and North.

The Journal said domestic petroleum market analysts say distillate and residual fuel supplies will cover an expected 4 per cent jump in demand from industry and householders.

The larger demand is expected mainly from consumers cut off from natural gas supplies, while the generally improving economy also will mean a larger demand.

"The larger demand can be met with stepped-up refinery production, more imports of product and a drawdown on stocks in storage," the Journal said.

Gun owner registration, ID likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is expected to approve legislation that would order the registration of handguns and the identification of their owners, congressional sources say.

The House Judiciary subcommittee on crime is scheduled to spend Tuesday working on handgun control legislation, with bills introduced by Chairman John Convers Jr., D-Mich., Robert McClory, R-Ill., and the administration on the agenda.

Sources said the subcommittee will vote down Conyers' bill for an outright ban on the manufacture, sale and possession of handguns, but will approve a bill calling for registration and identification, similar to the measure proposed by McClory.

The administration bill would ban the sale and manufacture of Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns, and would impose mandatory sentences for use of a handgun in commission of a felony. This bill is not likely to be considered at the session although it is on the agenda, the sources said. McClory's bill contains elements similar to those in the administration bill.

Once approved by the subcommittee, the bill is destined for quick consideration by the full House Judiciary Committee, according to a committee lawyer.

General Counsel Earl C. Dudley Jr. said House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., is "very strongly interested in the general concept of a strong gun control bill." The committee hopes to report a bill to the full House before the year ends so the Senate can get it by early next year, he said.

The House has failed to take any action on handgun controls since the 1968 gun control act was passed. In 1972 the Senate approved a bill introduced by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., to outlaw the Saturday Night Specials, but the House failed to act on it.

Bayh again has a Saturday Night Special bill pending before his Senate Judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, and has scheduled a hearing for Oct. 28. A spokesman said Bayh hoped the legislation would be approved and sent to the full committee "within the first couple of weeks in November."

Army holding deadly toxins, says NBC-TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Army is retaining samples of eight deadly toxins left over from its old biological warfare days, NBC-TV News reported Saturday.

The network said the Army disclosed in interviews that it has two of the poisons at Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, and six at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., for research purposes.

NBC said, however, there is no research program at Dugway, where substantial amounts of staphylococcus toxins and lesser amounts of botulism toxins are stored. It said there was enough toxin made from Hawaiian coral at Edgewood to kill almost 2,000 persons, plus amounts of snake venom and other deadly toxins.

"The Army says it may need these items for future research," the network reported.

Chaffey mulls pact on computer

Trustees of the Chaffey Union High School District will be asked to approve a computer maintenance agreement with IBM costing $10,072 when they meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the administration center board room.

The agreement would cover the period from Nov. 15 to June 30, 1976.

Trustees also will be asked to authorize the business manager to prepare specifications and advertise for bids for the purchase of a bus to serve the Chaffey Training Center.

They will be asked to approve a bid from Blue Seal Laundry Service for towel service this year at the rate of four cents per towel and 50 cents for every lost towel. The annual cost of this service will be $28,000.

THE BOYS AND GHOULS — These are some of the characters visitors will encounter in Miami's Haunted House sponsored each year by Youth for Christ in Miami. Brave visitors pay $2 each to be frightened out of their wits. Proceeds are used to help delinquents.

Airline blames flight controllers

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern Airlines blames flight controllers for last June's jetliner crash that killed 114 persons and says claims filed against it should be directed in whole or part to the federal government.

Faced with tens of millions of dollars in potential damage suits, the airline moved in Brooklyn federal court recently to shift actions stemming from the worst single-plane disaster in the nation's history. Only eight persons survived the crash of Eastern Flight 66, from New Orleans, which hit the ground just short of its Kennedy Airport runway during a thunderstorm last June 24.

Eastern alleges negligence and carelessness on the part of the federal flight controllers who, it says, failed to provide "adequate and proper" air traffic control services and transmit the necessary weather information.

The National Transportation Safety Board is considering the question of whether the air traffic controllers relayed sufficient storm information to the plane.

Good, clean Halloween fun scares 'em silly, helps kids

MIAMI (AP) — All r-a-a-h-t now, you monster lovers, the teen-agers of greater Miami are all set to open the creaky doors of their "Scream in the Dark Haunted House" for its seventh annual nine-day run.

It's not your silly, everyday kind of show. It is a realistic spook happening put on by a Youth for Christ group. It draws thousands of quaking aficionados from the age of 10 upwards. The profits go to counselors to help delinquent children.

Last year, according to the organizers, "82,000 victims made it through the world's longest walk of terror. Some never did."

As in years past, ghouls, werewolves, mummies, molemen, gorillas and assorted scary things will try to terrify all those who pay $2 for the privilege of being frightened to the point of fainting.

Sixteen-year-old Diane Lee, picked to play "The Mad Nurse," and Mark Courtney, an otherwise normal freshman at Miami-Dade Community College, are only two of nearly 300 teen-agers who will shed their All-American look for something macabre in the show beginning Thursday and continuing through Halloween.

Diane, a pretty brunette, gets to wear yellow makeup and runs around holding a liver in her bloody hands — a real-honest-to-gosh beef liver purchased at a neighborhood butcher shop.

Courtney remembers his performance in past years as a werewolf with an artist's appreciation of a job well done.

"I was hidden right up against the wall, and when people came by I would jump out. Their eyes would get real big, and some would be so scared they would run into the walls.

"That was my kick — seeing people run into walls," Courtney says modestly.

This year Courtney, who also has roles of a one-eyed butler and The Phantom of the Opera to his credit, is cast as Igor — the first monster to greet Haunted House visitors.

If Igor doesn't get the adrenalin pumping, Director Jim Green has more frights in store.

Straight from the blood-chilling studios in Hollywood come the spider web machine, cranking out giant strands of webbing as fast as visitors walk through them, and the fog machine. This is guaranteed to make visitors to the "Great Swamp" feel damp and clammy even before the Creature from the Black Lagoon surfaces to menace them.

The Haunted House is Green's creature.

It started out small as a Youth for Christ Halloween Party in 1968 for kids. The next year, 600 showed up. The party was then moved to a larger location and 1,500 attended.

Like Dr. Frankenstein, Green discovered his creation was out of control. Three years ago, the Haunted House moved to Tropical Park Race Track and opened to the public for several nights. Nearly 30,000 attended. It costs about $30,000 to produce.

"At any given time, we have 98 monsters on the floor," says Green as he walks through the maze of rooms being converted into cemeteries, swamps, scientific laboratories and dungeons.

But he claims the wide-eyed tales of faintings are exaggerated.

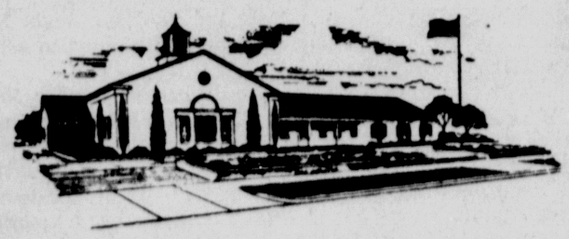

"We never have more than 18 to 25 faint a night," he says.

A first aid station is provided.

During the past year, 836 people received psychiatric treatment at the Los Angeles Child Guidance Clinic — a service supported by your United Crusade donations.

Immunizacion contra la gripe en las clinicas

Immunizacion gratuita contra la influenza se ofrece durante este mes a las personas sobre 60 anos por los departamentos de servicios de salud de los condados de San Bernardino y Los Angles.

Los oficiales de sanidad previenen que sin esta proteccion, las personas sobre 60 y aquellas afectadas del corazon, pulmones o rinones, o diabeticas, estan propensas a contraer peligrosas infecciones de gripe, con posibles complicaciones.

La vacuna protege contra tres tipos de influenza, de los que se esperan este ano en los Estados Unidos. La vacuna que se usa es un producto altamente purificado que reduce grandemente las posibilidades de molestias ulteriores, de acuerdo con los oficiales sanitarios.

Los servicios patrocinados por el Departamento de Salud del Condado de Los Angles empiezan el 9 de octubre, de 10 de la manana a 2 de la tarde, en el Community Center de San Dimas, 245 E. Bonita Ave., San Dimas; Fajardo Park, 18500 Fajardo St., Rowland Heights; y Palomares Community Center, 491 E. Arrow Hwy., Pomona.

En octubre 16 servicios clinicos se ofreceran de 10 a.m. a 2 p.m. en la First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona, y en La Verne Community Center, 1550 Bonita Ave., La Verne.

Servicios clinicos adicionales se planean para octubre 23 de 10 a.m. a 2 p.m. en Washington Park Community Center, 865 E. Grand Ave., Pomona, y Holmes Hall of Church of Religious Science, 509 S. College Ave., Claremont.

Mrs. Jane McDonald, Mrs. Laurie Schiller y Mrs. Hermaine Utech, voluntarias de la Cruz Roja, seran las coordinadoras de las clinicas en Pomona, La Verne, San Dimas y Rowland Heights.

Mrs. Kay Griffith y Mrs. Marian Lett estan reclutando y destinando los voluntarios para la Cruz Roja de Claremont.

Las vacunas gratuitas contra la influenza para las comunidades de West End estan planeadas para octubre 10.

Localidades y horarios, son: West End Health Center, 1020 W. Sixth St., Ontario, desde las 9 de la manana hasta medio dia, y de 1:30 a 4:30 p.m.; Salvation Army, 1412 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario, de 9 a.m. a medio dia, y de 1:30 a 4:30 p.m.; First Christian Church, 110 N. Vine St., Ontario, de 11 a.m. a 1 p.m.; Cucamonga Contac Office, 10155 - 24th St., Cucamonga, de 9 a.m. a medio dia; Casa Volante Mobile Home Park, 8651 Foothill Blvd., Cucamonga, 1:30 a 4:30 p.m.; y Chino Housing Projecto Office, Monte Vista Avenue y C Street, Chino, de 9 a.m. a medio dia, y de 1:30 a 4:30 p.m.

Survivors of plane disaster

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Fernando Parrado went back to the mountain he beat, and he wasn't particularly moved. He and the 15 other young heroes of the best seller "Alive" are over the experience.

The survivors gathered last Monday (Oct. 13) the third anniversary of their plane crash in the frozen Andes, but they talked more about rugby and girls than their 10-week struggle to live.

"It's the past. It's over," said Parrado, 25, home from rubbing elbows with Princess Anne and Jackie Stewart in the flurry of fame that followed their ordeal. Now he again sells nuts and bolts, running his father's "House of the Screw."

It was toughest for Parrado whose mother and 20-year-old sister were among the 29 persons who died on the mountain. They were two of the fans who were accompanying the "Old Christians" rugby team to a friendly match in Chile.

Roberto Canessa, 22, who walked down the mountain with Parrado for 10 days, says the same: "My life hasn't changed much ... sometime I leaf through the book and it seems incredible, but I don't feel like I was part of it." He is back in medical school and, like Parrado, still playing rugby.

When the group was rescued weeks after they had been given up for lost, and when they revealed they had eaten the bodies of their dead companions in order to live, some thought they would be permanently marked.

They were an international sensation. Parrado and Canessa did 247 interviews in a month-long tour of 25 U.S. cities. Nearly 3 million copies of "Alive" have been sold in the United States alone.

(Please turn to Page 10)

PAST IS PAST — Roberto Canessa, left, and Fernando Parrado toss a rugby ball lightheartedly on a field in their home city of Montevideo, Uruguay. They're among the 16 survivors of the plane crash in the Andes described in the best selling book, "Alive." As the third anniversary of their 10-week ordeal comes around, the survivors seem to be over the experience.

Koreas will resume talks on Red Cross

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea agreed today to meet with North Korea on Oct. 23 to try to arrange a resumption of Red Cross talks to reunite separated families.

South Korea also proposed that political talks between the two governments be resumed.

Red Cross representatives from the two Koreas held seven plenary meetings in 1972-73 to seek ways to reunite families separated by the division of the Korean peninsula. North Korea has boycotted the talks since August, 1973, because of the South Korean government's stringent anti-Communist policies.

The South Korean Red Cross proposed a meeting Sept. 12 to discuss resumption of the talks, but the North Korean Red Cross suggested that the meeting be held Oct. 23 in Panmunjom, the truce village in the demilitarized zone between the two countries.

The Red Cross talks in 1972-73 were accompanied by political talks between the two governments to arrange peaceful coexistence between them, and they, too, were suspended by the North because of the southern government's militant anti-Communism.

Resumption of these talks was proposed by Chang Keyyoung, acting co-chairman of the North-South coordinating committee, in a message sent over the hot line between Seoul and Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

He proposed that representatives of the two governments meet in Panmunjom on Oct. 20 to discuss arrangements for the resumption of the talks.

North Korea's reaction was not known.

Meanwhile, a political crisis in South Korea was averted today when an opposition member of the National Assembly resigned because she had called President Chung Hee Park a dictator in a speech in the assembly.

Kim Ok-sun stepped down an hour before Park's Democratic Republican party and its allies were to vote to oust her from the assembly. She was the second assembly member to resign under the threat of eviction since the republic was founded in 1948.

Shoplifter was killer

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — A man captured following a shoplifting incident here turned out to be a convicted murderer who escaped from San Quentin in August, police said.

Dennis Novotny, 30, was arrested recently after clerks reported a shoplifting at a Thrifty Drug Store branch, officers said.

A routine check disclosed Novotny walked away from a prison honor farm Aug. 11. He was serving a life sentence on a first-degree murder conviction in Marin County in December, 1968, officers said.

Betty Crocker bothered

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Relax America, one of your favorite homemakers, Betty Crocker, is alive and well, and baking cakes and other goodies in her David City, Neb., home.

Several months ago the legend of Betty Crocker, a General Mills trademark for more than a half century, was shattered. The company acknowledged that Betty wasn't for real, but a made-up person.

According to John Wickland of Minneapolis, a spokesman for General Mills, Betty Crocker was created in 1921.

Wickland said Crocker was the last name of a popular member of the board of General Mills' predecessor company, and Betty was a "good American name." So the company put them together, using the name to sign company responses to questions from homemakers.

The same year, 1921, Betty Jane Grogan was born in Chicago, and 28 years ago she married Donald A. Crocker, thus becoming "Betty Crocker."

"I just claim the name, but not the fame, but my cakes are as good as hers," said the truelife, flesh and blood Betty Crocker.

However, Mrs. Crocker has been having problems because of her name, especially since the General Mills announcement.

"Today was just a little bit too much to take," said Mrs. Crocker after getting nine telephone calls from pranksters. The calls have become so numerous that Mrs. Crocker has resorted to leaving the phone off the hook. She rejects the idea of getting an unlisted number, but she has entertained thoughts of a name change.

The calls don't just come from persons in Nebraska, but from other states as well. Mrs. Crocker can't figure out how the callers are getting her number, but she wishes they would stop calling at all hours of the day and night.

So far, the callers have been nice. About the worst one was when one caller asked Mrs. Crocker how her crumbs were.

Betty says she likes to talk with the unknown callers, but that it gets very tiring after a while.

"It does get irritating. I don't want to be a complainer, but I do get tired of it once in a while," she said.

Despite her famous name and a good hand in the kitchen, Mrs. Crocker has never won a cooking contest, in fact she's never entered one — because of her name.

But Mrs. Crocker has made the most of her name, and gets a kick out of some of the odd looks she gets.

Two of her prized possessions are buttons given to her by friends. One reads, "Betty Crocker Week," the other says "Betty Crocker for Sheriff."

Here's a first in firefighting

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — For more than half a century a small group of students have worked their way through Stanford University by serving as firefighters with the town's professional corps.

Linda Bammann, 19-year-old sophomore, is the first female student firefighter. "It's a great program," she says, "and means a lot to me financially."

The students get room and board at the fire station, study there and take professional firefighting training with the other firemen.

Student firefighters sleep two to a room but Linda has a room to herself.

Gary Dufresne, assistant training officer, says, "She can buck those big three-inch hoses as well as anybody and with 60 to 70 pounds at the nozzle that's something."

Miss Bammann wears what the others wear, black work oxfords, blue jeans, a shortsleeved blue shirt with a Stanford patch on the shoulder. Like the rest she gets a salary which can go as high as $200 a month, depending on seniority and ability. She eats with her shift and pays for her food but she doesn't do any cooking.

"I'm not much of a cook," she laughs.

The nautical article which has a stock, a shank, arms and flukes is the anchor.

Casals student to give recital at UC Riverside this afternoon

Cellis Geoffrey Rutkowski, a former student of Pablo Casals and pianist Wendell Nelson will present a recital at UC Riverside at 2:15 this afternoon.

The performance in the International Lounge is one of the "Music for a Sunday Afternoon" series. Tickets are $2; students and senior citizens, $1.

Rutkowski began his musical studies at the age of eight, and since that time has performed throughout the United States, Canada and abroad.

In 1967, Rutkowski was chosen by Casals to study with him in Puerto Rico, and the result was a critically acclaimed performance in San Juan.

Nelson's reputation is growing both here and abroad for his recitals, orchestral performances and master classes. A native of California, he received his bachelor's degree in music at Pomona College, his masters at the University of Michigan and his doctorate at Northwestern University, where he studied piano with Louis Crowder.

He has presented concerts in Greece and France, sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency, and appeared with Rutkowski in London.

Nelson is chairman of the music department at UC Santa Barbara, where Rutkowski is an associate professor.

Navy ships

The antecedents of the U.S. Navy go back to September 1775, when Gen. George Washington commissioned seven schooners and brigantines to prey on British supply vessels bound for the colonies or Canada.

Family-oriented approach helps alcoholics

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "We've tried everything else," said the father of a 34-year-old alcoholic. "If this doesn't work, I don't know what we'll do."

For those who can afford it the family-oriented treatment at Palm Beach Institute is often a last resort after other cures for alcoholism have failed.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., is perhaps the most visible success of the institute, where patients ranging in age from the teens to the late 60s try to lick their drinking problem.

"Wilbur has been doing excellently," the institute's director, Dr. Ronald J. Catanzaro, a psychiatrist, said of Mills. "We hope to keep in regular contact with him."

After a series of highly publicized misadventures and several failures with other rehabilitation techniques, Mills signed into the $395-a-week institute last March. About two months later, he returned to his seat in the House.

The institute, very protective of its patients, has been a haven for public figures and influential business executives.

Its guiding theme is that a person's alcoholism is indicative of a breakdown in his family. Other illnesses such as drug addiction and emotional problems are treated here, but most of the 30 patients under care at any one time are here for alcoholism.

"The treatment of the family is part of the core of a patient's problem," said Catanzaro, 40. "It's the whole family's problem because it shows a poorly functioning family."

The "familization" treatment — a combination of group therapy, individual counseling, lectures, psychodrama and self analysis — generally lasts about eight weeks. The institute creates an extended family of patients, therapists and key members of the patient's real family to improve techniques of communication.

Generally, at least one of the patient's relatives enters the institute for the final two weeks of treatment, as did Mrs. Mills.

The total cost is $3,950, and about 6 in 10 who take the cure stay off alcohol, Catanzaro says.

During a recent group session, the parents of the 34-year-old alcoholic, whose first name is Bill, said they blamed themselves for his predicament.

"We keep trying to figure out where we went wrong, why he turned to alcohol and drugs," Bill's mother told 14 persons gathered in a quiet, sunlit room in one of the center's six small buildings clustered in a pleasant residential section of this Gold Coast city. "He was adopted, but we loved him so much."

By the end of a 90-minute morning session, the group and its counselor had persuaded the parents that they were not at fault.

But the parents' positive feelings wore off later that morning when they met their son for the first time in six weeks.

"I didn't know you'd be here," said the sullen and combative younger man. "I don't want you here."

"He uses what we call emotional blackmail," Catanzaro said. "Like 'I am bad because you raised me wrong, and therefore, anything I want you should supply me.' We hope they can get strong and stand the line against him and say, 'No, you're responsible.'"

Catanzaro said the alcoholism suffered by his own mother was the spark that lit his interest in the disease.

He developed the family treatment technique and, he said, borrowed heavily from other disciplines for various therapy plans. On his staff are psychologists, social workers, several specially trained former alcoholics and six counselors. Upon admittance, each patient is assigned a counselor who is responsible for the patient's progress through several phases of treatment.

and it has been the top seller in 24 countries.

"It hasn't changed us," says Parrado, who, if nothing else, is far less bashful as he scrambles motorcycles and races cars in local competition here. Friends note a new, easy confidence.

"I do the same job. I see the same friends, we drink in the same bars, and we play on the same team," he said recently. "We are all 100 per cent normal in every aspect."

Five of the 16 survivors have married, several of them buying Montevideo apartments with proceeds from the book. All work or study around here except Pedro Algorta, who is in nearby Buenos Aires. All are in their 20s.

The 16 have built homes for the families of three of the boys who died on the mountain, and they paid for three schools in the provinces.

"What's left for each one may be enough for a small apartment or a European trip or a car, but stuff like that ... no yachts."

United Artist is expected to begin filming "Alive" in January. The film may put them back into the limelight and into the money, but few seem overly excited by the prospect.

"Yes, I suppose Robert Redford was interested in playing me," Parrado allowed, a trace of pride crossing his Robert Redfordish features. "Still, that's not my life."

He admits that much of the fame remains. Recently a California woman stopped by to say she got off her plane in Montevideo simply to see him. People still stop him for autographs.

But the wild adulation and the morbid curiosity that first attended their rescue has died down. Uruguay issued two stamps to commemorate the survival, and book sales approached riot proportions at first. Now the survivors say about the only difference is that they can sail through Uruguayan bureaucracy because people insist on stepping aside in lines to help them.

In February Parrado and his father went to the crash site, driving 50 miles from the nearest town to a small mountaineer's refuge and then climbing by horseback for two days to cover the remaining 10 miles.

"All I could think of was that it was a tremendously beautiful place. There was no other emotion. It was just a magnificent mountain scene. Of course, it is different seeing it with food and supplies than being lost and dying. That changes the aspect a little."

Parrado, disoriented and weak, had walked more than 60 miles before he stumbled upon a Chilean peasant who brought help.

The group had set off from Montevideo in a chartered Uruguayan Air Force twin turbo-prop Fairchild, which landed first in Mendoza Argentina, at the foothills of the Andes. There were 16 players, 24 relatives and friends, and five crewmen.

The plane crashed in bad weather, killing 28 people immediately or soon afterward. As others died from injuries, exposure, avalanches and lack of food, the survivors agreed that they must eat flesh from the dead to stay alive.

Chino struggles to control gang violence

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Raul lives in an older section of Chino that obviously isn't as attractive as other parts of town.

A former gang member, Raul (not his real name) is knowledgeable about conditions of the Mexican-American quarter, or barrio as many call it. He feels the mood and tension in the barrio.

"Fighting and killing isn't the whole story of the barrio," he told a reporter at his home recently. "But what do you expect when you get a whole crowd of poor people and stick them off somewhere — with no recreation. There isn't even a walk-in theater here."

Until late August, this barrio where Raul makes his home had been boiling over with gang violence.

Things have cooled a bit since Aug. 24, when the apparent rivalry between Pomona and Chino youths culminated in what some officials termed a major disturbance outside Our Lady of Guadalupe Church.

A youth recreation center has since been opened by the Chino Community Action Council (CAC) at Fifth and D streets Oct. 11, in hopes of holding down the street warfare.

Earlier, authorities blamed four killings and numerous other shootings over a four-month period on the gang rivalry. It had reached a high point when a Chino gang member was gunned down in his car in the middle of the barrio.

Although the Aug. 24 disturbance was a setback for the CAC, a parents group formed to deal with the gang problem, their struggle has not been in vain. In the past month and a half, police have no reports of the warfare continuing.

Some city and police officials believe the arrests of a large number of youths allegedly involved in the disturbance may have cooled things down. And, the opening of the center in the former GI Cafe was a major step forward for the CAC — and, hopefully, the community.

The overriding question remains: when will the bloodshed end for good? Why do youths join gangs, and then become involved in tragic incidents? Is there any solution to the problem?

Police officers and other officials do not feel helpless in stopping the violence, but they are not predicting an early solution.

"If you look back in Chino's history, you'll see that gang violence is here to stay for a long while," says Police Capt. Louis Moreno of Chino. He commended the parents who formed the action council and who are working, "to at least slow down the violence."

Moreno, a Mexican-American himself, said one must understand his culture before finding reasons for gang activity. "We're a very proud people, maybe at times too proud. Sometimes it drowns us and we can't see the forest for the trees."

"Machismo" plays a great role with Chicanos, Moreno said, but often "a destructive role."

Moreno said he has heard "an array of excuses" for youths fighting. "They are protecting 'their' barrio, so you see 'Death to Outsiders' scrawled in Spanish on buildings around town."

Gangs are "exciting" to young boys, explained Moreno, and often there are girls involved. Violence can erupt over a Chino gang member dating a Pomona girl, or vice versa, he said.

The sobering reality is that sooner or later youths become involved in a tragic incident, he added. "These are not little pranks. Some of the kids are vicious criminals."

He cited one incident involving an innocent 7-year-old child being shot in the stomach during gang rivalry.

The key to turning the tide of violence, he said, is not the priest or rabbi, or the police. "It's the parents themselves."

The mother is the strong figure in the Mexican family, Moreno noted. "While kids get involved in viciousness, they would never raise a hand to their mother. Parents can band together and hold this thing down."

Moreno agrees with Raul that conditions in the barrio are a factor. "Until people can raise their children in a different atmosphere, the violence may be here to stay."

Raul, who has been in and out of jail since he was 17, said he is not active in the Chino gang any longer.

"But I feel our gang goals were the same as the kids now — to make a name for ourselves. When you're young and reckless, you want people to know you're around."

Raul said his gang established pride. "Chicanos are a proud people. We're proud of everything. This goes back way before talk of black pride and 'black is beautiful.' Chicanos have always been proud. It protrudes through our culture. We're proud of a car, so we fix it up. And we're proud of the town we live in."

Raul believes that gang members today are trying hard to live up to the reputation of Chino being a "tough town."

"Older people can't understand what it is like, growing up in the barrio. They don't know why there is fighting and killing.

"But the problem is the city. There is no recreation, nothing to do. When I was younger, we'd have parties on weekend nights. But now you get people together in a pad and police roll in and bust it up."

"When there's nothing to do, you're supposed to low ride. A low rider is a guy who doesn't give a damn."

Raul is harsh when he talks about police, and daily "harassment" handed out. "One cop I know is prejudiced. Instead of patrolling other areas, he comes to the barrio. His whole trip is to harass kids who he knows have a record."

Some Mexican-America. policemen forget their heritage, Raul said. "They've been whitewashed."

"If police are searching for someone, they might stop every car in the barrio, he said. "They stop you and say, 'Hey, Pancho', I heard you have a gun in your car.'"

Raul blames the city for taking away a park where the Chino police station now stands. "They've taken away our barrio. Every year they gobble up two more blocks," he added, referring to recent downtown redevelopment and planning for a new civic center on D Street.

"We used to have fiestas, a bandstand and fireworks in that park," he recalls. "Now they give us two swings and say, 'here's your park.'"

Raul said the Civic Center should have been built away from the barrio, on Central Avenue where the businesses are. "They've taken away something we are proud of, and they wonder why we're upset."

Martin Salgado, meanwhile, is one Chino parent who has not given up the struggle to the gangs. He is president of the Community Action Council, and has been instrumental in obtaining the vacant GI Cafe for a youth recreation center.

Salgado and other CAC members persuaded police to pull their officers out of the riot area on Aug. 24, so parents could gain control of their youngsters. The CAC called other parents to come in and remove youths allegedly involved in violence. Perhaps because of their actions, no one was shot or killed during the riot.

Moreno praises Salgado as a "giant among men."

Pomona police have attitudes similar to Moreno's about the gang problem.

Det. Jerry Uribe concluded during a recent interview that there is no one reason for the violence. "It's a combination of things."

Like Moreno, Uribe cited the girlfriend situation. Gang members in Chino become irritated when Pomona youths take out their girls, he said.

But Lt. Jack Blair blamed the viciousness of the youths. "One thing that amazes the police department is that people are getting killed for things acceptable in society. Would you kill someone for taking out your girl friend?"

"And no one is making any money off this except hospitals, mortuaries and cemeteries," he said.

Blair flatly stated that police cannot halt the gang violence, because of a lack of manpower. A police state could be established, he suggested, but "the taxpayer wouldn't pay for it and you wouldn't want it."

Chino School District psychologist Vince Zivelonghi offers another view of the situation in claiming that Anglos suffer from apathy over the gang situation. "They just don't care. If something could have been done about this, it would have been done long ago."

Gang members' behavior is socially acceptable in the barrio, he added. "They may feel repressed by the Anglo culture and this is one way to protect themselves."

Eileen Carter, a Chino councilwoman, disagrees with Raul over the lack of recreation in the city. Keeping active is a matter of individual choice and initiative, she said. "There's no such thing as nothing to do."

Southland officers at rites

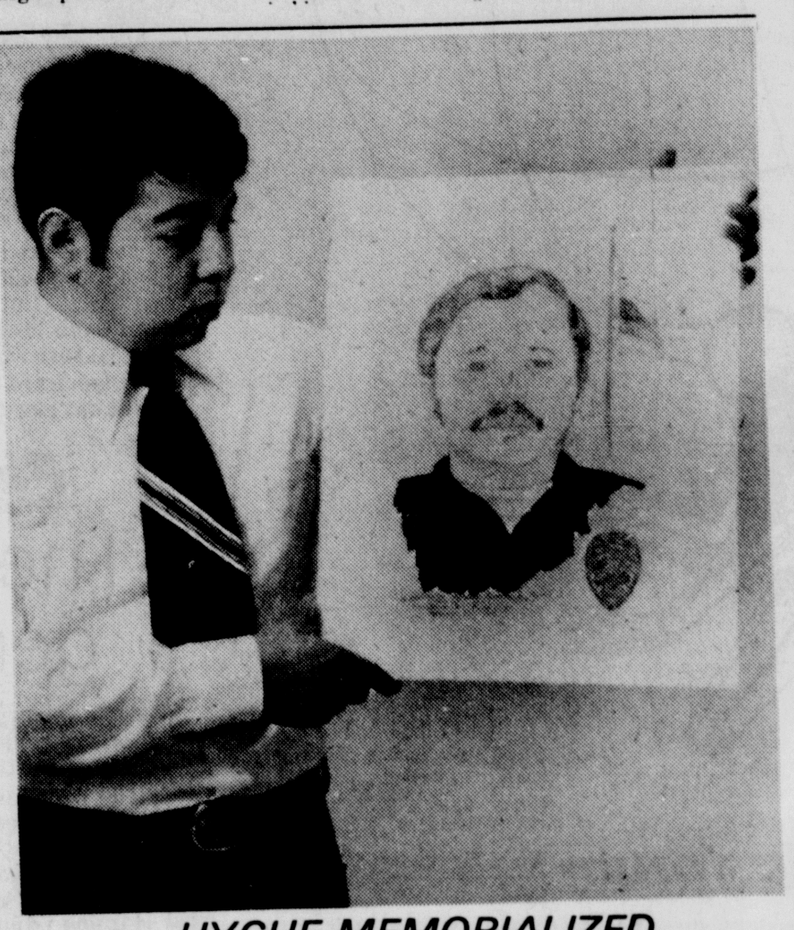

Funeral services for Ontario policeman Richard M. Hyche, 31, were conducted Saturday at Bethany Baptist Church in Montclair with hundreds of law officers from throughout Southern California in attendance.

Hyche, the first Ontario policeman killed in the line of duty since 1957, was shot to death Wednesday when Steven Michael Miller, 23, allegedly fired more than 50 shots at policemen from an Ontario apartment house before surrendering. Miller faces murder charges in the slaying.

Following the service in Montclair, a funeral procession made its way to Forest Lawn Covina Hills, where Hyche's remains were entombed.

A four-year veteran of the Ontario police force, Hyche leaves his wife, Karen, sons, Bryan and Darryn, and daughter, Tracy.

A week of mourning, from Oct. 18 to 24, has been declared by Ontario Mayor Paul Treadway. Friends may donate to the Richard M. Hyche Memorial Fund, care of First National Bank and Trust Co., 437 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario.

HYCHE MEMORIALIZED

Joe Romero, Pomona police cadet-artist, presented this drawing of the slain Ontario officer to Ontario Police officials during funeral services Saturday.

PB manager, police chief will speak

Bob Bush, general manager of the Progress Bulletin, and Pomona Police Chief F. P. Wallick will address a luncheon meeting of the Pomona Coordinating Council Monday.

Bush will report on the avalanche of responses the newspaper received following the recent anti-crime editorial, "Stand Up and Be Counted." The Progress Bulletin received more than 2,000 replies, indicating citizens are fed up with a small number of individuals who are responsible for Pomona's rising crime rate.

Wallick plans to address the group on what actions the police department is taking to combat the activities of criminals within the city.

The luncheon, which begins at noon, will be at La Cabana restaurant at Holt Avenue and Palomares Street. Reservations, which are limited, must be obtained by telephoning 623-6433.

Hillside ordinance returns to council

A controversial ordinance, designed to protect the city's hillsides, is coming up for final consideration by the La Verne City Council Monday night.

Action on the proposed regulation was postponed two weeks ago when the council had second thoughts about limits which the ordinance would place on prospective developers.

While Julie Stewart, chairman of the city's Commission on Environmental Quality, pleaded with the council to protect natural habitat, City Councilman Frank Johnson said the proposal should not be so restrictive as to prevent the development of the best of Mountain Springs Estates.

"I don't want the hillsides torn up either," Johnson maintained. "I just want to be sure the ordinance is realistic."

A proposal has been submitted to the city by Mar-Jo Development, Inc., of La Verne to subdivide 45 acres of land within the fashionable La Verne Heights neighborhood.

The company says it will present details of the plan at the council meeting.

Johnson contended the city "could run into trouble" if it passed a restrictive ordinance while the plan was being processed by the staff.

The council also will consider an ordinance that would change meeting nights of the city's planning commission from Tuesdays to Wednesdays.

Other items coming up for discussion or action include:

— Closing a portion of the downtown area from 9 to 11 a.m. Nov. 8, in connection with a homecoming parade of La Verne College.

— A decision on whether to permit the establishment of an In-N-Out Burger business at the intersection of Foothill Boulevard and Fruit Street.

— A request from the Chamber of Commerce for permission to hold a "flea mart" Nov. 9 at Kuns Park, with the proceeds going toward the purchase of the Liberty Bell for which the council loaned $20,000 last summer.

W.C. man on probation

A 33-year-old West Covina man, who admitted a grand theft charge in connection with the embezzlement of funds from a Pomona building materials firm, has been placed on probation for five years.

He is John Eric Lewis, who formerly was a controller-accountant for Bruner Pacific Marble and Granite, Inc., at 2695 N. Towne Ave.

Lewis was arrested almost a year ago and accused of stealing $90,000 from the firm. Investigators said then that they suspected that Lewis used the money to finance a European trip, the purchase of a house and several expensive automobiles.

MECHA Club plans benefit

The MECHA Club of La Verne College will hold a fund-raising dance next Saturday at the student center with proceeds going to help the La Escuelita preschool.

Music will be by a group known as "Moving Thru."

Dr. Sarafian named new LVC president

Armen Sarafian, retiring president of Pasadena City College, was named president of La Verne College Saturday during a special meeting of the college's board of trustees, announced Mrs. Mary E. La Fetra, board president.

Sarafian, 55, is a graduate of La Verne College, and is scheduled to step down as president of the Pasadena junior college in March.

His appointment comes four months after Leland B. Newcomer's decision to resign the post to become superintendent of schools for the Grossmont Union High School District near San Diego.

Sarafian will be the 16th president of La Verne College.

Three other finalists were being considered for the post, including W. Donald Clague, dean of the college's graduate program and acting president since Newcomer's departure; Charles Dick, vice president for public affairs at the Cornell University medical school, and Gene Cesari, director of development at Elmira College in Elmira, N.Y.

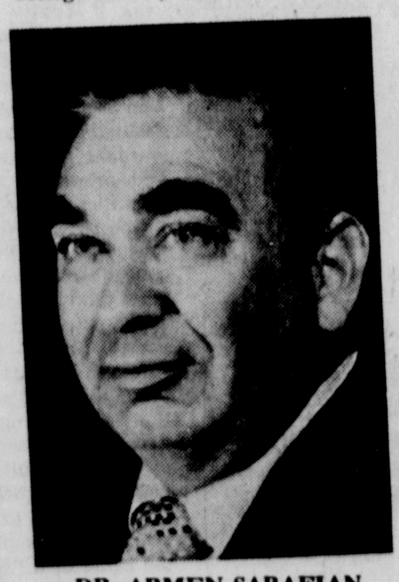

In announcing Sarafian's appointment, Mrs. La Fetra said, "We are confident that under his leadership La Verne College will continue its tradition of making significant contributions to higher education."

Sarafian was graduated with high honors from La Verne College in 1940. He subsequently received a master's degree from the Claremont graduate school, and doctoral degree from USC.

He has been associated with Pasadena City College for 29 of his 34 years in public education. Since 1959 he has served in key administrative posts for Pasadena College, including almost a decade as superintendent of that junior college district.

Sarafian has not announced the date he will assume the La Verne College post.

He has been a member of the college's board of trustees for the past six years. His father, the late Kevork Sarafian, taught at the college for 27 years.

'Science, Society' LVC lecture topic

Science and Society will be the topic when researcher Emanuel Margoliash discusses "Macromolecules and Biological Evolution at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6 in La Fetra Hall of La Verne College.

A member of the department of biochemistry and molecular biology at Northwestern University, Margoliash counts more than 30 years of study and research in the fields of structure-function relations of blood proteins, molecular evolution and immunology, and energy conversation mechanisms.

Changing family lifestyles is topic for psychotherapist

Psychotherapist Charlotte Clinebell, author of "Meet Me in the Middle," will be the guest speaker Wednesday at a free public program at the Pomona Public Library.

The 7:30 p.m. program will feature a discussion of the changing lifestyles of families.

Mrs. Clinebell is a doctoral candidate at the Claremont Graduate School and has recently completed a new book, "Counseling for Liberation," to be published by Fortress Press. She is a licensed marriage, family and child counselor and social worker.

On Tuesday at 7 p.m., the library will present a skiing program directed by Dick Morris, professional ski instructor, and Don Radford of the city Parks and Recreation departments. The program will serve as an introduction for the city's four-week dry land ski school which begins Monday, Oct. 27 at the Ganesha Park Community Center.

A magic show for children will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. featuring "Andrew, the Magician," who is Jamie Ali, a sophomore at Ganesha High School.

Ali presented game programs at the library this summer and recently auditioned for the Junior Magician program at the Magic Castle in Hollywood.

Other childrens' activities at the library this week include Laurel and Hardy films on Wednesday at 7 p.m., a story hour for elementary school aged children Thursday at 4 p.m., presentation of the film "White Mane" Thursday at 7 p.m. and craft activities beginning Saturday at 10 a.m. and continuing throughout the day.

For information about library programs, persons may call 620-2011.

Oil industry victim of bias

"The petroleum industry is the most maligned and misunderstood economic entity in America today, primarily because it is the victim of the most totally biased information.

"I do not wonder that the American people are confused about the country's energy problems because so many of our elected representatives have for two years been pointing accusing fingers at the industry, attempting to punish the industry and make it the scapegoat for problems caused primarily by policy — or I should say, nonpolicy — failures of government."

The complaint is not that of an executive of one of the oil giants but of C. John Miller, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, representing 4,000 of the nation's 10,000 independent drillers, who account for 90 per cent of current domestic exploration.

Lest anyone think he is being picky with Congress, Miller notes that 33 congressional committees, 65 subcommittees and one joint panel have jurisdictional claim on the energy issue.

Almost 1,000 energy-related bills have been introduced in the 94th Congress, but of all these final action has been taken only on the 55-m.p.h. speed limit, repeal of the depletion allowance and extension of price controls (vetoed by President Ford but later extended by compromise to Nov. 15).

The latter two bills are highly counterproductive to our declared purpose of restoring relative energy self-sufficiency, Miller says.

Percentage depletion applies to more than 100 domestic minerals, and 42 of these still receive the 22 per cent rate that formerly applied to oil and natural gas. But in a "punitive action," Congress repealed depletion only on oil and gas, thereby removing more than $2 billion yearly that otherwise would have been available to find and devlope new petroleum reserves.

As for price controls, the industry still labors under a two-tier system established during the Nixon administration. Under that program, about 60 per cent of domestic production — so-called "old" oil — is controlled officially at $5.25 a barrel.

Price controls under any formula would be counterproductive because they cause economic distortions, says Miller. but under the present two-tier system, there is little incentive to do remedial work to maintain "old" production when expenditure of the same dollars may find or develop uncontrolled "new" oil at more than twice the price.

Decontrol on new oil, along with exemption by Congress of price controls on marginal stripper wells, are the only things we have going for us to encourage increased development of domestic petroleum supplies, says Miller. Every other action of Congress has been negative and has had the effect of discouraging exploration. Yet there are some in Congress still determined to "roll back" new oil prices and freeze the already controlled old prices.

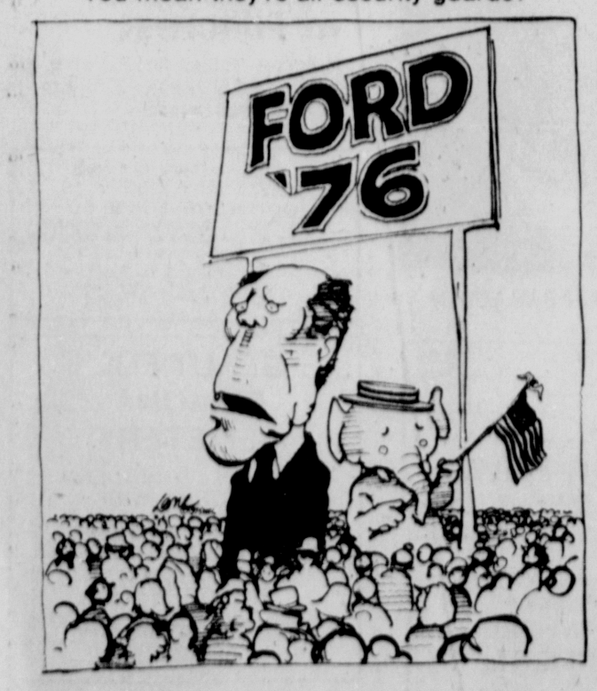

On balance, he contends, if Congress had done nothing the country would have been better off, if our goal is to extricate ourselves from overdependence on foreign energy supplies.

Achieving that goal is going to require anywhere from $75 billion to $100 billion a year in new capital investment through 1985.

"There is little question," says Miller, "that the national interest requires policies that will encourage these increased capital investments in one of the highest risk, highest cost industrial activities in America.

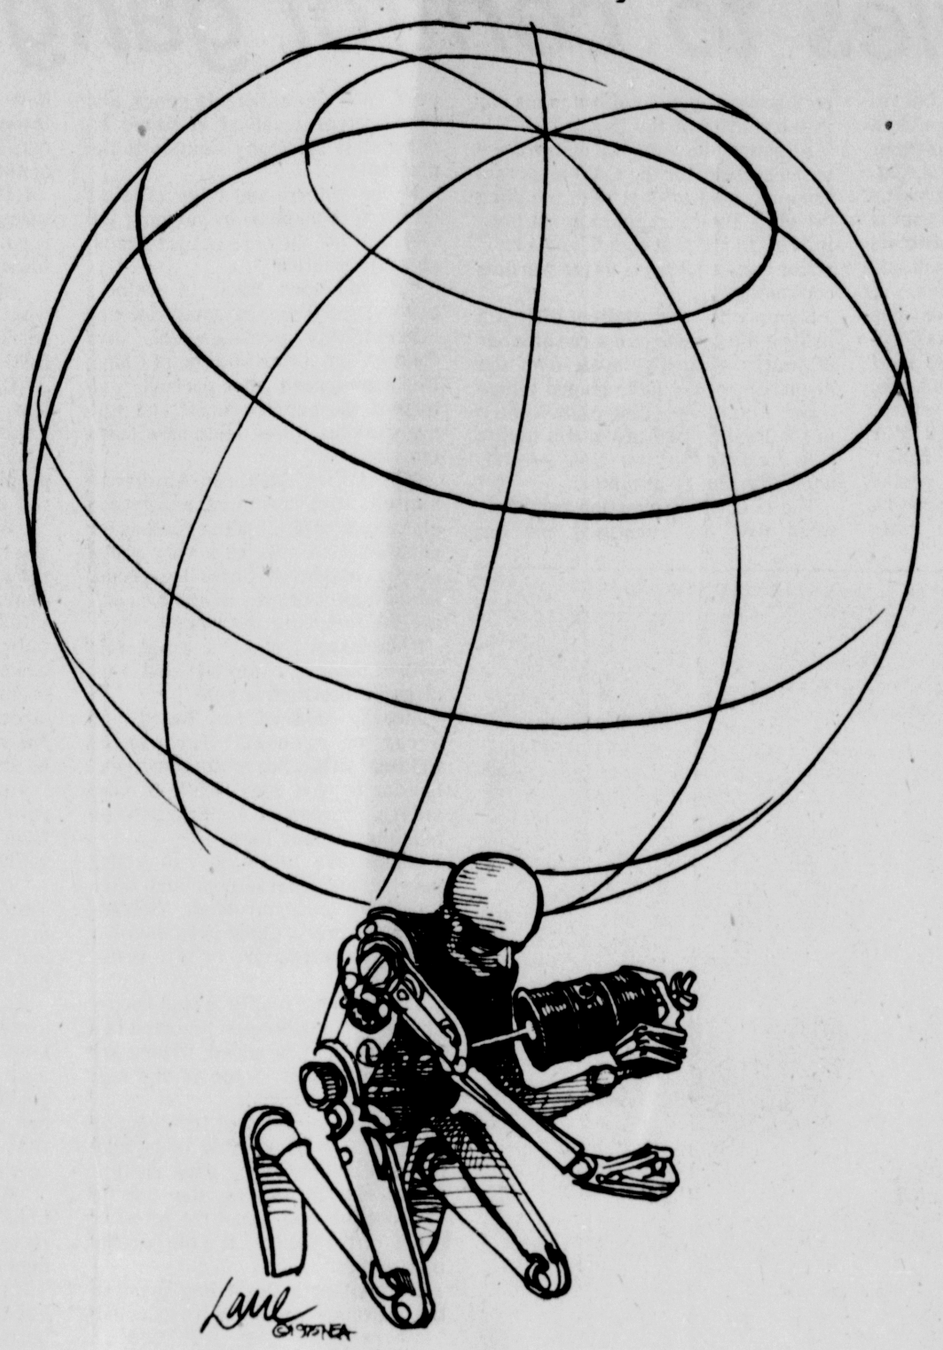

"This requirement is imposed on us because despite all the crash programs that may be undertaken at great public expense, I do not know anyone who disputes the fact that we will continue to rely on petroleum fuels for the bulk of our energy needs through the next decade or so."

"You mean they're all security guards?"

A free press

Dear Editor:

Your editorial of Sept. 28 was of interest and very timely. Then on October 10 your editorial regarding a "free press' was of interest. A combination of these two articles did provoke a few thoughts that I would like to share with you.

You see, I too believe in our Constitution and Bill of Rights. A "free press" as guaranteed by these documents is an intregal part of our democracy. I do feel however, that to believe and live by the guarantees of these documents which form the foundation of our government, one must be obligated to the whole and not just that part that suits. In other words, one should not use the front of a "free press' to infringe on the rights of individuals or their right of privacy. Reference is made to the recent attempt on the life of President Ford in San Francisco and actions taken by a William Sipple. Could not the newspapers have dwelled on his actions and any heroism involved? Was it really that necessary and newsworthy to delve into the private life?

Your Sept. 28 editorial was no doubt prompted by the two most recent senseless stabbings in the downtown area of Pomona. The facts are shocking to say the least. However, was it really that necessary to publish the name of the one victim and then on a follow-up story identify her as the person furnishing information for a composite drawing. The intestinal fortitude of that victim is admirable but has she not suffered enough? Time and time again full identification of the victim of a crime is carried by newspapers.

The law prohibits the disclosure of juveniles involved in crime. Society, thru their legislators, make these laws, not judges or police departments. Should not the identity of juvenile victims of crime also be protected? The possibility of retaliation is one thing but have you any idea of the peer pressure brought about as a result of this identity? Is there no obligation on the part of newspapers to protect the victim of crime or is this invasion of privacy in the name of a "free press'? Does a person who reports a crime relinquish all of his rights?

Countless times, victims of crimes request their names be withheld from newspapers and the stock answer of police is that . . . "it will be requested, however, I don't have any control over it". There is no doubt, that this fear of identity prevents the reporting of numerous crimes. Writers of "Letters to the Editor" may request the withholding of their identity so why not the victims of crimes particularly if requested? All persons have a right to be confronted by their accuser but in a manner prescribed by law.

Catchy and sensational headlines seems to be the name of the game to attract readers. The Sept. 8 issue of the Progress Bulletin carried an article headlined "Paramedics fail to save drowning victim's life". A reading of the article discloses one line about Paramedics . . . "and Paramedics assisted her enroute to the hospital." The tragedy of the story is the drowning of the little girl so why is the finger pointed at the Paramedics?

Your editorial of Oct. 10 regarding a "free press" indicates some news reporters and writers may be somewhat lacking in the ethics of the profession. Further reading indicates a defense for these persons in the guise of "free press". Other professions, police especially, take all necessary steps to remove these persons from their ranks and denial of the privileges of the profession, including arrest and prosecution. Maybe it is time for the news people to sit down and re-evaluate policy and procedure and to set goals for the media other than selling newspapers. Lets leave the sensation to the Truman Capotes etc. but for the newspapers — "no names, no sales pitches, just the facts mam."

A system of rewards may merit some consideration. It worked in the old west and it might work now. It certainly could not be any more expensive that the present methods of apprehension. The Law Enforcement Assistance Act provides for the distribution of funds for programs to combat crime. Local government contributes about 10% and Federal grants about 90% toward local programs. Possibly a reward system for information along this line might be effective. The taxpayers are paying the bill one way or the other and it is quite obvious the present system is not working.

A good start has been made, you are to be congratulated, keep it up. — Richard O. Morrison, Claremont.

Neighborhood clubs

Dear Editor:

I think your editorial and program for spotlighting crime in Pomona is excellent. But more attention should be paid on what the mayor, city council and police department are doing or going to do to fight crime. Other cities' cooperation should also be enlisted in the fight as crime is not only in Pomona. How about the police department starting a Block by Block program. Call it a "Friendship Block (Neighborhood)" club to accentuate the positive rather than the negative. — Frank Mooney

P.S. Keep up the fight!

Waiting to transfer

Dear Editor:

We have lived and owned property in Pomona for 38 years.

Because of deteriorating neighborhoods and the soaring crime rate we have sold our home and, also, three houses which we had labored long and hard to acquire as income property during our retirement years. There is no security while living in fear of losing life and property.

We are now waiting to transfer to a more crime free area. Pomona policemen deserve more wholehearted support than they have received. — Mr. and Mrs. E. L. C., Pomona

Print all crime

Dear Editor:

I want all crime printed. I want every name and address included, so people know where these outlaws are.

I'd also like some records on our judges printed, so we know how to vote. Letting crime committers out so they can commit again is not what we want.

Keep up your good work and help clean up Pomona. — Mrs. P.M., a senior citizen

Moved here from L.A.

Dear Editor:

I thank you for printing the crime news as I believe one needs to be on the alert at all times. I have moved here from Los Angeles a few months ago where crime is way "out of hand." After having a good car broken into, stolen, hot wired and then stripped and cut up, and house having been robbed on three different periods, the last time in the daytime while I was at work and having my door broken down one evening by a strange man wanting money for drugs and beaten up in my back yard while hanging out the washing to dry, I decided to move away from there and chose Pomona.

I am really deeply hurt that it is getting as dangerous as Los Angeles. I have to have lights on at night and it's like being cheated out of so much of "just plain living" as one can't go out in their yard to water in the cool of the evening or have the windows open to sleep or take walks and window shop or anything without being afraid of being overtaken. So I just stay locked in at night and wait for the daylight. I planned on walking to the Mall as I had heard how lovely it is, but am afraid.

Please try to do something with the officials and have them give more severe and longer sentences to the offenders. The law is too lenient. Thank you again. I'm only putting my name and not my address for very obvious reasons. — Nella Ross

Back your police

Dear Editor:

I, too, grew up in the lovely little town of Pomona, as did my husband who is now a Pomona policeman. As kids we were proud of our town and now our children are not even allowed out of the house after dark. They are missing all of the good things a kid enjoys when they're growing up, because of our fear of them being attacked on the streets.

My husband loves his job and he is very dedicated. He puts his life on the line many times and by the time he's thru writing his reports, the criminal beats him back on the streets. Is this justice? What is it going to take for our courts and judges to see the light? Many of our school friends and families we've met growing up in this town have left and moved out in fear of their own safety and kids. This is sad. I know there must be something that can be done. Please back your police, they need your help and stand up and be counted.

Expand police force

Dear Editor:

I am very much in favor of decreasing crime here in Pomona and vicinity.

But to do this, we will have to increase the size of our police force and give them back some of their authority that some of our stupid laws have taken away from them.

Our firemen, who have very little tension or danger, are paid more than the local policemen. What kind of pay scale is this?

So keep up your drive against crime. Maybe you will do some good. Force some of the welfare recipients to go to work would be a start.

Thanks for trying. — Carol Johnston, Claremont

Just in jest

Three quarters of a century ago virtually every other farmer in the land was able to get his barn painted free of charge once a year by the simple expedient of allowing it to be used as a billboard for DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

But don't think that just because farmers and barns are becoming fewer and fewer, Golden Medical Discoveries in this country have seen their heyday. The truth is that in this modern age they are equally as prevalent as they were in the good old days.

The latest on a long list of miracle cure-alls, according to a New York City physician, is a lotion made from the female hormone estrogen that reduces baldness in men when rubbed into their scalps.

Also, any day now, there may be a startling health announcement made by researchers at the University of California in San Diego, where they are conducting a series of scientific mouse exercising experiments to determine whether exercise affects the immunological responses and thus helps fight disease better.

Yes indeed! Today's medical experts are every bit as enterprising as they were in those olden days when they shouted their glad tidings from the barn rooftops. — But isn't it strange that as yet none of them have been able to come up with a Golden Medical Discovery to prevent the 2 million flu cases being predicted for this winter by California's state health director?

Paul Harvey
The illiterate generation

Today's young people — statistically — are taller, handsomer, healthier, smarter and more capable than any generation which preceded theirs. Except they can't read or write.

A million American teen-agers, 12 to 17, cannot read or write at a fourth-grade level! A million American youngsters are illiterate. They learn a little bit about a lot of things in school, but they are not learning reading, writing and 'rithmetic.

So they get to college. They want to be journalists. And they can't even spell. This year 200 students applied for admission to the University of Wisconsin's school of journalism and most of them—125 of them—were turned away because they did not have even a basic understanding of the English language. They needed only 56 correct answers out of 90 — and still couldn't cut it.

One of the washouts said, "Why should I have to know about commas and hyphens and stuff like that?"

At the University of Illinois, a freshman writes, "I could of done better in finals if I wouldn't of broke my leg at exam time."

Only 8% of this year's Illinois freshmen passed the writing proficiency entrance test.

Universities should not have to teach students to read and write. Part of the problem is grade inflation in high school. "Head 'em up, move 'em out, pass everybody!"

Albert Tillman, University of Illinois, blames television. He says children are watching instead of reading. Many colleges and universities, pinched financially and forced to increase enrollments this year, are waiving freshman writing requirements So you can get into college, through college and out with a degree—and remain functionally illiterate.

How do they understand their textbooks? They don't always. Elliott Anderson, professor of English at Northwestern, admits that many teachers do not bother to correct grammar in student essays.

Further deleterious is the insistence by some that "street language," as they call it, because of common usage should be construed as correct.

Dr. Dwayne Bliss, assistant superintendent for administration in the schools of Corpus Christi, Tex., says discipline problems are worsened by marginal literacy.

"They can't read and they get bored; they get bored and they get in trouble." The situation is worsening, not improving. High school graduates taking college entrance exams have scored lower in language skills every year for 12 years, and this year's decline was the steepest yet.

Maybe teachers have been spending too much time striking when they should have been teaching. And, lest your run out of things to worry about, out of this generation's students will come the next generation's teachers.

Rifle cleaner, polishing cloth

By NORMAN H. STARK

The true sportsman regards his fine shotguns and rifles as more than just weapons. Their craftsmanship and fine materials make them things of beauty and should be cared for as such.

Here's an easy, economical way to protect the external surfaces of your guns against moisture and rust-producing finger marks.

Measure out one cup of water and add two tablespoons of the silicone oil emulsion to it. Place a flannel cloth in a shallow pan and pour silicone/water mixture over it. Allow the cloth to soak for five or ten minutes, and wring out excess liquid. Save excess liquid in a jar and re-treat cloth as needed. When cloth is thoroughly dry, rub slowly over all external surfaces of gun, and watch the beautiful sheen come up as the silicone film is deposited. Take the polishing cloth with you in your gun case, and apply to gun after each day in the field.

Most hardware stores carry silicone oil in spray cans, however some do not carry the water emulsion type. I've found it's easy to make my own. Simply add a pinch of soap to the water. Add silicone oil with rapid stirring, and the emulsion will form. (To measure from a spray can, hold spray can to edge of spoon, spray gently into spoon, allowing silicone to separate from the propellant.) Silicone will be called for in future formulas, so save what you have left.

Your cost will be about twelve cents for the silicone. To determine the savings, check out the price of a genuine treated cloth at your sporting goods dealer. You'll be surprised at what you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area.

Ann Landers

No place for a plastic bag?

Dear Ann Landers: How COULD you, even in the name of humor, print the suggestion that a cook put a plastic bag over his head while peeling onions in order to avoid the fumes? Some unthinking reader is sure to try this suggestion and suffocate! I urge you to warn your readers against the use of plastic bags in such a manner, and especially to keep those things out of the reach of children! — Deeply Disappointed

Dear Dis.: I was dumbfounded at the number of letters (and phone calls!) I received from readers who were upset by the suggestion that the onion peeler put a plastic bag over his head to avoid teary eyes and a running nose.

There is no way an adult can suffocate, if he is in his right mind and sober.

As for keeping plastic bags out of the reach of children—now THAT makes some sense.

Dear Ann Landers: What can be done to protect yourself against a vicious relative? My husband's older brother has tried to dominate our lives, as well as the lives of his older brothers and their families from the moment we married into the family.

There were five boys and each of the wives has had to fight to save her marriage from this eldest brother's venomous attacks. He writes letters to his younger brothers at work and tells them what their wives have been doing that he thinks is wrong. He then suggests "proper punishment."

It doesn't stop there. He writes lengthy reports on what he hears about their children and doesn't hesitate to outline what should be done about their "terrible behavior." In the meantime his own kids have been in trouble with the police and his frightened mouse of a wife is a candidate for a mental hospital.

Please come out swinging, we need your help. — Beat Down.

Dear B.D.: No man or beast could become that powerful unless someone gave him the authority. The Gestapo routine should have been scotched the minute Big Brother began to stick his nose into your business.

It's up to you women to let your husbands know you will no longer tolerate the bully's interference. If you haven't the guts to do it, you'll have to suffer.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I wore a plum-colored outfit to the office. A woman I work with complimented me on the ensemble and said she has a suede bag exactly the same color which she had worn only a few times. "I'd love for you to have it," she said. "I'll bring it tomorrow."

Today she broght the bag and it was a perfect match. When I thanked her she said. "I didn't mean it as a gift. I had in mind selling it to you at cost. The price is $40."

I almost fell through the floor. I told her I couldn't afford it and thanked her anyway.

In all my life I have never sold an article of used clothing to a friend. Now I feel our relationship has been hurt. Am I naive? Am I stupid? Was she crass? I need your opinion. — Plum-Faced

Dear P.F.: Selling used clothing to friends, generally speaking, is not a good idea. the woman should have made it clear from the outset that she intended to sell you the bag. Forget the incident and hopefully she will, too.

Rome was a haven for dogs

Rome now has more homeless cats per square mile than any other city in the world, it's said. Interesting. Time was, though, when Rome was the dog haven of the world. The most common Latin sign in ancient Rome was "Cave Canem" meaning "Beward of Dog." Imperial law then required every watchdog owner to post such a warning. That dog was a status symbol. It told the citizenry thereabouts that the master of the beast owned property valuable enough to be worth guarding.

CLIMBERS

Veteran forest rangers in frequent contact with mountain climbing parties say women tend to have better endurance than men. The women don't seem to be affected as quickly by the short supply of oxygen in the high altitudes, they report.

NOTE a North Texas posse with citizens band radios the other day tracked down a pair of bank robbers. Excellent, excellent. Too bad all the local police don't put their fast fugitive calls out on the truckers' channels. Would beat posting pictures in the Post Office.

GARLIC

I can't verify the claim, but some scholars at the University of California's Riverside Division of Biological Control contend people who eat a lot of garlic aren't bitten by mosquitos much, if at all.

CLIENTS ASKS how long people have been keeping pet birds in cages. Don't know, don't know. Before recorded history, certainly. The word "birdcage" turns up in some of the oldest written records.

IT'S A RARE HUSBAND who ever tells anybody that his wife snores. But many a wife reveals to her friends that her husband snores. How do you account for the difference?

What the American Dream is

I've never been really sure what the American Dream was until I read a survey on it the other day.

It seems people between the ages of 14 and 25 feel they will have achieved ultimate bliss when they acquire (in this order):

1. A home of their own.
2. A savings acount of at least $5,000 and life insurance totaling at least $50,000.
3. A college education.
4. A new car.
5. An air-conditioned home.
6. Opportunities for travel abroad.
7. A stereo.
8. A Master's degree.
9. A color TV set.
10. A dishwasher.

My personal dream changes daily. There was a time when I envied those who traveled. Now I want to be able to afford staying at home. And the old pressure on a daughter to "Marry a Doctor" has been amended (due to malpractice insurance and the high cost of dedication). I am now advising my daughter to "Marry a Game Show Contestant" — preferably one on "High Rollers" or the "$10,000 Pyramid."

Maybe when you are 14-15, happiness is synonymous with possessions. At my age (whatever that is) it's the little things that constitute the American Dream:

1. A doctor who will see me when I am sick. I never seem to be able to make my illness come out even with my appointment.
2. Someone who doesn't understand a word Henry Kissinger says and will come and sit with me sometimes.
3. A universal spray can that will hold everything from whipped cream and deodorant to starch and hair spray.
4. A recording that has the courtesy to say, "You're welcome" when I say "Thank you."
5. A letter sweater for kids who excel academically.
6. A realistic Christmas savings that you could withdraw from in March if you had to.
7. A spetic tank with an original way of telling you it was going bad.
8. A dishwasher — maybe two of them — who didn't slap one another and yell, "I'm telling!"

Dr. Miller

Deer mice often sing during night

DEAR DR. MILLER: While on my first camping trip, I was startled by something starting to sing in the middle of the night. My friend thinks he has me convinced that it was deer mice, but of course I know that mice can't sing. What do you think it might have been, really? —G.P.

DEAR G.P.: Surprisingly, some after-hours arias in field or wood are actually orginated by deer mice. While not all deer mice are determined to burst into song, those who are (and do) are more likely to do so at night.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're getting our "smarts" on canaries, having acquired Biddy. Since she has scraggly feathers, we read all we can about what's doing this. Most everything we find blames bad nutrition. How does this fit with the facts as you know them? —E.D.

DEAR E.D.: Plumage problems run the gamut from boredom to hormonal disturbance to mites to pollution. Even so, the majority of birds suffering some degree of feather failure also have some degree of malnutrition. Hence, dietary factors must always be considered when attempting to correct a frowzy-feathered condition.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've been offered Sheila free, for giving her a good home. We don't have a lot of room, and have more time than money so can take her out a lot for plenty of exercise. We hadn't thought of taking on a dog at this time but Sheila is a beautiful animal, a Great Dane, and since we have the time, what can we lose? —D.E.

DEAR D.E.: Agreed. Time is needed to take care of a Great Dane, and certainly the smaller your living quarters, the more "out" time she'll require. But time alone won't do it. Caring for a Great Dane these days (and that care includes costs ranging from veterinary bills to a considerable amount of food) may mean an investment of over $1000 a year. You should at least consider the potential cost in owning large dogs. Too many people don't, initially. This is one of the major reasons increasing numbers of large dogs are abandoned or given up by their owners. Undoubtedly, Sheila needs and deserves a good home. Just be sure you're capable of providing it — long term — before taking on the responsibility.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My dog, Pinkerton, has this unfortunate tendency to put on weight. Actually, we both do. The result is my wife puts both of us on practically starvation rations about twice a year. She keeps us starving, too, until we get our weight down again. I keep telling her this is bad for us. Can you back me up? — R. J.

DEAR R. J.: Starvation rations can cause hazards ranging from hypoglycemia to vitamin deficiency. Periodic crash diets produce additional dangers, particularly in the human species where the periodic "put-on" and loss contributes to, among other things, fat deposits in blood vessels and gallstones. These latter hazards haven't yet been proven to apply to dogs, but it's prudent in either species to diet, particularly the crash variety, only under a doctor's supervision.

Dr. Lamb

Cutting down on blood fats

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband recently learned he has too many triglycerides in his blood. His count was 316.

We can't find too much information on triglycerides and wondered if you could help us. What is the difference between triglycerides and cholesterol, since they are both fatty substances? Also, where could we get more information concerning triglycerides? He is on a no sugar, no starch, and no fried foods diet.

DEAR READER — I get that question often. No wonder since heart and vascular disease is the most common serious disease we have in our culture.

Cholesterol is a waxy substance from the bile. It is not really a fat. It has a yellowish mushy consistency. It is transported with fat (triglycerides) into the artery wall. A greater amount of cholesterol than fat remains in the wall and causes the cholesterol deposits that cause heart and vascular disease in man.

Triglycerides are simply fats. The fat you eat is usually made up of fatty acids connected to glycerol (glycerine). Three fatty acids connected to glycerol is a triglyceride. That is what you find in animal fat and most begetable fats. Look on the food labels now appearing and you will see the terms monoglyceride. That means one, two or three fatty acids attached to the glycerine. It is all fat, and that is what you want to know.

The fatty acids can be saturated fat or unsaturated fat. The cholesterol, fat (triglycerides), and a blood protein combine to form a soluble substance in the bloodstream called a lipoprotein.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing about my son. He has erythropoietic protoporphria. It was not diagnosed accurately until he joined the Marines when he was 18. He was medically discharged after 40 days of hospital examinations and is now going to school at the university.

I understand this is a metabolic disease and part of the problem is an allergy to the sun. I am wondering if anything in the nature of a diet could improve the condition.

Life without the sun is not an easy adjustment, and I'm wondering if he should have some type of vitamin supplement.

DEAR READER — Yes, that is a rare disease all right. It was only described a short time ago. It belongs to a group of disorders involving pigment formation in the body. The pigment in the type of disorder your son has is caused by excessive pigment formation by the liver and a small amount from the formation of red cells.

The form he has causes what might at first appear as an intense, sudden reaction to the sun, with reddening and swelling of the exposed areas. Prolonged exposure can lead to an exzema-like appearance which gradually heals and may even leave scarring.

I am happy to tell you that this form of porphyria usually doesn't cause any serious disability nor affect the outlook for life expectancy. So, your son should live a healthy, normal life — except if he wants to protect his skin he will have to avoid the sun.

I am less happy to tell you that this is the only treatment other than symptomatic measures when sun exposure causes problems. There are no special diets nor any benefits from supplements or extra vitamins.

What people say

"The Ford administration has become Spain's chief source of moral support in the despicable execution (of five political prisoners). For the sake of renewing a pact with Spain guaranteeing U.S. military bases there, administration officials have not uttered a single word against the slayings."

—Peter Camejo, Socialist Workers Party presidential candidate, on the U.S. refusal to condemn Spain's Generalissimo Franco.

"There is something about American attitudes toward the 18th Century that has always puzzled me. The Bicentennial is not seen as a celebration of 1975 — it is a celebration of 1775. The United States achieved its identity in the Age of Enlightenment and seems to have been revolving ever since around the kind of mentality that produced Jefferson and Franklin."

For Monday, October 20, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Some unexpected expenses could suddenly pop up today and catch you off guard if you're not careful. Manage your money prudently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be smart today about handling people whose cooperation you need. Get off on the wrong foot and their help will be withdrawn.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Usually you don't mind lending a helping hand when you can. Today, you'll see that your interests come first.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be pressured by a friend over something material. Try not to make loans or borrow from pals if you can prevent it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't put too high a price on gratifying your ambitions today. The rewards won't be worth the toes you'll have to step on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've not completely forgiven someone you may cross swords with again today. It won't pay to rehash a volatile old issue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even though you'll be inconvenienced try to honor an old obligation to a friend. Problems will arise if you renege.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Partnership situations will get a bit sticky for you today if your goals are not in harmony. Don't be the one to drag his feet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You tend to make chores that face you today far more complicated than they are. Mistakes and frustrations are likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't gamble on the unknown today, or take chances where the success of the venture is in someone else's hands.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have to contend with a few more domestic frustrations today than usual. If you keep your cool, they're manageable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful today or you might get yourself embroiled in a heated discussion with a friend over a ridiculous issue.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Oct. 20, 1975

Several interesting business propositions will be presented to you this coming year. One could be profitable but don't look for immediate returns. It will be slow sledding.

Jacoby's bridge

Dummy reversal brings 12

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Frank Thomas goes through a long rigamarole in order to describe how Holmes and Watson bid to six spades.

The bidding in the box shows how they might have reached it if they were using the jump raise as almost, but not quite, forcing.

Holmes counted 12 easy tricks provided clubs broke 3-3. He decided to use a dummy reversal to give him twelve against a 4-2 club break.

At trick two he ruffed a heart. Then he cashed his ace of spades, led a spade to dummy's jack, ruffed another heart, entered dummy with a high club, ruffed dummy's last heart with his last trump, entered dummy with the other club honor, drew East's last trump with dummy's queen while discarding his six of diamonds and would have made seven if clubs had broken evenly.

This play would have failed if East had started with one less heart and one more diamond since he would have been able to discard a club on the lead of the last heart.

If you want to have some fun you can find two other ways to make the contract. Neither suffers from the disadvantages mentioned before but each has certain weaknesses so that we have no quarrel with Homes' play.

EMERY GILL

Libbey Glass promotes two

Two management promotions in the Libbey Glass Division of Owens-Illinois, Inc., were announced today by Leonard E. Brownson III, vice president of the consumer and technical group and general manager of the Libbey Glass Division.

Leo B. Haidet has been named plant manager of the Libbey Glass Division facility in City of Industry.

Emery Gill Jr. has been named plant manager of the Libbey Glass Division facility in Toldeo, Ohio, succeeding Haidet.

Haidet succeeds Raleigh H. Kinker, plant manager at City of Industry since 1964. Kinker will retire early next year.

Haidet, a native of Alliance, Ohio, joined Owens-Illinois as a budget analyst in 1953 after receiving a degree in industrial management from Ohio State University.

He had served as Toledo plant manager since 1969.

Gill, a native of Hamilton, Ohio, earned a degree in business administration at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1950 and joined the firm in 1952. He has assisted Haidet in Toldeo since September 1974.

Business briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Western Bancorporation, the holding company for United California Bank and 21 other commercial banks, has reported a 27 per cent decline in net income for the third quarter.

The firm said Wednesday that profits totaled $16.6 million or 69 cents a share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared to $22.8 million or 95 cents a share in the same quarter last year.

The drop was blamed on an increase in troubled loans. About $250 million in loans were not accruing interest as of Sept. 30, about 2.5 per cent of the loans outstanding.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The assets of an investment firm here have been frozen and its three corporate officers have been accused of bilking $2 million from retired persons.

U.S. District Judge Daniel Snyder Friday ordered Investors Security Leasing Corp. of nearby Monroeville to cease operations and liquidation of its assets.

The firm's president, vice president and secretary were accused of defrauding more than $1 million in cash and another $1 million in securities from 125 investors.

1,000 remains market barrier

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you go back through 10 years of stock market literature you will find repeated predictions that the Dow Jones Industrial Average was headed for 1,000 points and beyond.

Most of the predictions were made during bull markets, when caution is subdued and confidence feeds on itself. These are conditions that brokers love to retain, and one way in which they do it is to issue bullish bulletins.

Despite their efforts, the average during the past 10 years has penetrated and remained above 1,000 points only briefly, in late 1972 and early 1973. The peak was 1,051.70.

Five other ascents flattened themselves out against the so-called barrier, reaching peaks between 943 and 995 points before suffering sharp reversals. Throughout 1975 the average has remained below 900.

While this tends to suggest that the 1,000-point level is indeed a psychological barrier, a glance at some market charts provides what appear to be a more substantial reason: As interest rates rise, stock prices fall.

The pattern isn't as sharply defined as opposing pieces in a jigsaw puzzle, perhaps, but it is there, unmistakably. In fact, the market plunge of 1974, which dropped the average to 577.60 points, coincided with the record-high 12 per cent prime rate.

Stock prices and interest rates are of course reflections of many economic factors, but they also have a direct bearing on each other. When bond yields exceed the returns on stocks, money is drained from the stock market. When interest rates fall, some of the money returns.

In the decade of the 1950s, when the prime rate was 4 per cent or so, stocks returned an average of 18.9 per cent and bonds only 1.1 per cent. In the 1960s, when the prime was still relatively low but rising, stocks returned 5.3 per cent and bonds 2.8 per cent.

So far in the 1970s, with some interest rates rising to their highest of the century, stocks have returned only 4 per cent while the return on bonds has soared to 7.1 per cent. The current status is 4.6 per cent stocks, 8.6 per cent bonds.

With that historical record as the setting, you can readily understand why many professional investors are analyzing the Federal Reserve Board's activities as closely as stocks themselves.

In their view, the Fed, which holds enormous power over interest rates, could be the single most important influence on the stock market.

USE PATRIOTIC THEME

Mrs Carol Schwarzbach, left, and Mrs. Mary Pat Hildebrant experiment with centerpieces as they plan the decorations for Family Service Auxiliary Saturday event.

Fashion show charted

"Spirit of Fashion" is the theme for the gala fashion show and luncheon to be held Saturday at Griswold's Indian Hill Pavilion Saturday in Pomona.

Members of the auxiliary will wear gowns of an early era as they welcome guests to the 11 a.m. social hour and noon luncheon.

Women's fashions will be provided by Musette's and children's fashions will come from Teeka's Teens and Magic Cradle. Auxiliary members and their children will model.

Mrs. Michael Magruder is chairman for the event and coordinators are Mrs. Frank Robertson and Mrs. Gus Zemba. Other committee chairmen are: Mmes. Joe Carter, John Kozyra, David Searle, Mark Hayden, Martin Schwarzbach, Frank Guzowski, Bruce Goetting, Robert Haner and David McPherson.

The Family Service Auxiliary of West End is beginning its 10th year and has as its purpose to bring its members into more active affiliation with the West End Family Counseling Service; to cooperate with the agency by organizing fund-raising activities; and to provide service.

The counseling service is located at 855 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario. It offers individual counseling, group therapy, premarital counseling and play therapy for children.

MIXTURE OF FASHIONS

Current fashions will blend with those of the early 1900s for Family Service Auxiliary fashion show Saturday as demonstrated by, from left, Mrs. Jean Magruder, Mrs. Sara Goetting and Mrs. Mercy Zemba. The show is scheduled at Indian Hill Pavilion in Claremont.

YOUNGSTERS TO MODEL

Some of the youthful models get pointers from Mrs. Judy Hayden as they practice for the Family Service Auxiliary fashion show to follow club's annual luncheon Saturday. From left are, Sharon Magruder, 2; Jan Hayden, 5; and Michelle Vinatieri, 12.

Rehab directorship is taken over in state by quadriplegic

BERKELEY (AP) — A quadriplegic who will become director of California's Department of Rehabilitation next month says people shouldn't consider him a "superhero."

"Most severely disabled people could do the job. It may be unusual now, but it won't be in a few years," said Edward V. Roberts, who spends 12 to 14 hours a day in an iron lung.

Roberts, 36, was stricken by polio as a promising 14-year-old high school athlete. Paralyzed from the neck down, the disease has even affected the muscles which expand his diaphragm and help him breathe.

During the day, Roberts takes short gulps of air through his mouth and nose. The iron lung helps him breathe at night. An attendant helps him dress and eat, but Roberts manages nearly everything else on his own, including controlling a motorized wheelchair between his home and office, a mile away.

When he takes over on Nov. 1, Roberts will probably be the only quadriplegic ever to head a major governmental agency. He says he will be living proof that severely disabled people can be successful and "masters of their own destinies."

"Society too often has written us off," he said. "They've placed limits on us for so many years. The old stereotypes must be thrown out."

Roberts' own experience reflects many of those stereotypes.

The same Department of Rehabilitation he will head tried to discourage him from attending the University of California here where he later earned bachelor and master degrees in political science.

Medical and rehabilitation personnel also told him he would never be able to work, nor operate a battery-powered wheelchair. Yet, he has succeeded at both.

Part of the problem, said Roberts, is that many people directing programs for the severely disabled have no understanding of the real needs of such disabled.

"I start with an advantage because of my experience at being disabled," he said. "I may be the state director, but I'm still a crip."

Roberts estimated nearly 10 per cent of California's 20 million residents are disabled, and between 200,000 and 300,000 people suffer from severe disabilities such as quadriplegia, paraplegia, blindness, deafness, cerebral palsy and mental illness. He hopes to make these severely disabled the No. 1 priority of the Department of Rehabilitation.

Roberts came to the attention of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. through the Center for Independent Living, a community-based organization which Roberts and a dozen other quadraplegics founded in 1969. Roberts is now executive director.

"We were wondering about our futures after college and how we were going to survive," said Roberts, recalling how the center came about. "We rebelled against the idea that we had to spend the rest of our lives in a rest home or institution."

The center at first offered counseling and a pool of available attendants for about 50 severely disabled students on the California campus. The program later expanded to the entire community, providing counseling, attendants and job training to about 1,000 disabled people.

Through the center, Roberts has been politically active, fighting for state and federal legislation that will help the severely disabled be more independent. He also has been a leader in eliminating many architectural barriers, such as curbs, for the disabled in Berkeley.

Much of the center's work is aimed at helping the newly disabled overcome their problems and realize they can become successful and independent people.

"Severely disabled people often have a devastated, broken image of themselves," he said. "You're stuck in a place where you always see yourself as a cripple. After I got polio, I wanted to kill myself. I didn't feel life was worth living.

"But here at the Center for Independent Living," said Roberts, "there is a pride about being disabled."

International Women's Conference set by U.N.

Four leading international men and women will be keynote speakers at the San Francisco United Nations Association's International Women's Conference, Friday and Saturday at the Sheraton Palace Hotel.

Recognized throughout the world for their dedication to equality, development and peace, the themes of International Women's Year, Judge Annie Jiagge, justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals in Ghana; Laura Allende, former senator in Chile and sister of the late President Salvador Allende; Ambassador Davidson Nicol, director of United Nations Institute of Training and Research; and Mildred Persinger, organizer of the IWY Tribune in Mexico City and member of the YWCA World Council, will address a crowd estimated to be over 1,000 persons about their concerns regarding the roles of women throughout the world.

Other participants include Elba Montes, program development specialist, U.S. Department of Labor; Paula Allen, chairman, Native American Studies Program at San Francisco State University; Lydia San Felippe, La Raza Women's Counseling Service; and Valerie Bradley, Black Women Organized for Action.

The conference organizers want to expand the base of interest in women's issues to reach the uncommitted in all communities throughout the state.

The conference is open to the public and information may be obtained by calling 415-441-3344.

Secretary unit sets dinner

Students feted for their work

Pomona Valley young people were among those honored by the Guardian Circle of the Los Angeles office of the Public Guardian recently.

At the recent awards luncheon at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, six area residents were presented awards for their services to wards of the Public Guardian as volunteers. All of the volunteers have befriended and reinvolved wards of the Public Guardian in Pomona in cultural and athletic activities in the community.

Recipients were Gail and Bonnie Grunwell, Ontario; Donald Cooper, Pomona; Nanette Rowe, Claremont; Rebecca Duran, Pomona; and Frank Quichocho, La Puente.

The circle was conceived and designed to re-introduce into the lives of incapacitated people the cultural experiences that are available in Los Angeles County. The volunteers donate a few hours of their time each week to assist the wards of the Public Guardian. Their activities supplement the services provided by the staff. The volunteers enable hundreds of lonely handicapped people to engage in religious, aesthetic and athletic events.

Applications are available for prospective volunteers from Guardian Circle, Office of the Public Guardian, 1625 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, 90015.

Transcriber Guild sets activity

Pomona Valley Transcribers Guild will hold open house today from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Ontario Public Library, 215 E. C St., Ontario.

There will be guided tours of the guild's Braille Room and the Braille section of the library. On display will be some of the teaching for the visually-handicapped classes from Chino High School, Ramona Junior High School and Newman Elementary School of Chino.

Refreshements will be served in the Colony Room of the library.

The guild transcribes books into braille and Large-Type. Braille books can be duplicated on thermoform machines operated by guild members. Many of the guild's braille transcribers are certified by the Library of Congress.

Woman's Club to gather

The Chino Valley Woman's Club will meet at noon Monday at the Chino Community Building.

Past Presidents and charter members will be honored during a program presented by Mrs. Rose Marie Watte, Mrs. Marge Zivelongi and Mrs. Jo Bajema.

The meeting will also serve as a reciprocity luncheon with officers and representatives from several district clubs attending. Ten new members will also be welcomed.

In keeping with the club's philanthropic goals, $100. was approved at the October board meeting to help a high school sophomore, Jessie Atilano, attend the 1975 Future Farmers of America Convention in Washington, D.C.

Rain, rain go away!

BOSTON (AP) — An old fashioned Northeaster blew through Boston Saturday, postponing the sixth game of the World Series between the Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds but leaving each team's pitching plans unchanged — at least for the moment.

Manager Sparky Anderson, whose Reds lead the Series 3-2 and need just one more victory to nail down their first World Series victory since 1940, said Jack Billingham would still start Game 6 if it is played today. And Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson is sticking with left-hander Bill Lee today, provided the rain stops and the soaked Fenway Park field dries enough to permit a game.

If rain forces postponement of today's game, Johnson said he would change plans and use Luis Tiant in Game 6, then Lee in the seventh game if the Series goes that far. Tiant owns both Boston victories in this Series and would be pitching with four days of rest if he goes Monday.

Anderson plans to stay with Billingham for today and Gary Nolan for seventh game duty if that is needed Monday. That is the same rotation the Reds brought to Boston. But another day of rain could change it. Billingham would still start Monday, but if the Series goes until Tuesday, Don Gullett would be Anderson's pitcher.

BOSTON (AP) — The National Weather Service predicted a 70 per cent chance of rain for today, dampening hopes the rain-delayed sixth game of the World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Red Sox would be played.

Forecasters said today also would be windy, with easterly gusts of up to 30 miles an hour and cool, with highs only in the 50s.

"Tuesday would be Don's fifth day and that's when he pitches," said Anderson.

As the ace of the Reds staff, Gullett is the man Sparky thinks can lock up the Series. The flame-throwing left-hander limited Boston to two hits until the ninth inning in winning Thursday night's game. But the Reds would like to finish the Red Sox off before Gullett's turn comes up again.

Anderson has held rigidly to a rotation that afforded Gullett four days of rest between starts. The left-hander started the opening game when he was beaten by Tiant and after he won Game 5, the manager said he would be in the bullpen available for an inning or two—"no more"—in Game 7. But the rain could change that.

One thing the weather couldn't do was dampen the enthusiasm of Pete Rose, captain of the Cincinnati club. Rose said the rainout would bother the Red Sox more than the Reds. "It will just give them 24 more hours to think about," he said.

Rose admitted that he suffers from chronic optimism. "I'm a positive thinker," he said. "I've played 13 years and 2,000 games to be in this situation — needing one more game to be a world champion."

Saturday's rainout was the first in a World Series since 1972 when Cincinnati lost to Oakland.

The Reds lost that Series in seven games and Rose remembered it bitterly.

"Six of the seven games in that Series were decided by one run," he said, "and we lost four of them." The seventh game was decided by a ball that hit off the seam of the astroturf and a fly ball that our centerfielder, Bobby Tolan, lost in the glare of the white shirts."

TELLING IT ALL

Red Sox coach Johnny Pesky uses blackboard in Sox' dressing room to sum up the state of things after Saturday's scheduled World Series game was called due to rain. The Bosox and Reds will try it again today, with showers once again forecast for the Boston area.

Trojans struggle to win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John McKay's Southern California football team, third-ranked nationally, may have been looking ahead to its game with Notre Dame next week when it defeated winless Oregon 17-3 Saturday.

At least McKay said he hoped his team was looking ahead.

"I have no idea if our team was thinking about Notre Dame today," said a disgusted McKay, who saw his team make error after error on the gray, overcast day. "I sure hope they were thinking about something else. Our starting count is 'go.' If we can't understand that, we're not very good. We made every penalty known to man today."

But McKay said he was impressed with the Ducks, who moved the ball well early in the game.

"Oregon played its heart out against us and we were fortunate to win... Oregon beat us up and we just stood there and took it."

The Trojans were charged with 10 penalties in the game, including one for clipping when the Trojans were trying to chase down an Oregon punt return man. USC also fumbled five times, losing the ball twice.

"Yes," sighed McKay, "I'd say our poor play is a matter of consistency. We shouldn't be a 28-point favorite, but even if the other team didn't show up we'd find some way to lose the ball. We're not a good football team right now."

In addition to the errors, USC suffered its third major injury of the season when starting quarterback Rob Hertel suffered a broken tibia in his left leg. He was declared out for the year. Starting fullback Dave Farmer and starting defensive back Ted Roberson also suffered broken bones previously.

Vince Evans, who had been the starter for the first three games until suffering a thumb injury, returned and played reasonably well, but the Trojans wound up with just two pass completions in 10 attempts for 78 yards.

However, the Ducks went into the game as the nation's third best defensive team against the pass, permitting an average of just 62 yards per game through the air.

Jack Henderson of the Ducks wound up 15 of 37 in the passing department, but seven of his passes never left the line of scrimmage. Four of them were batted down at the line by Gary Jeter and one which was batted up in the air by Walt Underwood was then intercepted by Clint Strozier.

Dionne sparks Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Center Marcel Dionne struck for a pair of goals, including the goahead score, on a third-period power play to spark Los Angeles to a 5-3 National Hockey League victory over the California Seals Saturday night.

Dionne, who has scored five goals in his last four games, took a pass from Dennis Abgurall at 3:01 of the final period to beat Seals' goalie Gary Simmons from eight feet and break a 3-3 deadlock.

Dionne also contributed two assists, including a pass to Bob Berry, who scored into an empty net with 11 seconds left.

Defenseman Gary Sargent pulled Los Angeles into the tie at 15:32 of the second period with his first NHL goal, a 50footer on another power play.

The Kings grabbed a 1-0 lead on Butch Goring's 20-footer in the first period, but California fought back to take a 2-1 lead on goals by Gary Holt and Al McAdam.

Dionne drilled his first score of the night 41 seconds later with Gene Carr and Mike Murphy getting the assists.

Murphy finished with three assists as the Kings captured their fourth straight victory.

The Seals went ahead nine minutes into the second period when rookie George Pesut connected on a power play for his first NHL goal.

U.S. assumes Pan Am medal lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Tearful teenager Jennifer Chandler, given a rare second chance due to the noisy rudeness of fans, won the Pan American Games women's springboard diving Saturday and helped stake the United States to its first solid gold medal lead.

With only a couple of finals still to be decided Saturday— the team sabre and the women's compulsory gymnastic exercises—the United States pulled ahead of pesky Cuba 36-30 in gold medals.

The overall gold-silver-bronze count for the Americans—who usually gather two to four times as many golds as their nearest rival—was 36-31-19. Ambitious Cuba, which had led the Americans through the first week of competition by taking 20 of 27 golds in the now-completed weightlifting, was 30-23-11.

Totals for other leading nations were Canada 9-10-15, Mexico 4-5-14 and Brazil 4-7-7.

In addition to the 16-year-old Miss Chandler, other American victories included three more by the shooting team—giving them 14 of a possible 18. In addition, unheralded Ron Ray, of Durham, N.C., ran himself into exhaustion with a Games record time in winning the men's 400 meter finals, and Larry Hart won the hammer throw with a record throw.

Miss Chandler was locked in a close fight with Canada's Elizabeth Carruthers when she went to the board for the ninth of her 10 dives. She was trying a 2½ back flip, and positioned herself on the board as the howling crowd yelled, whistled and shouted.

Her concentration broken, Miss Chandler walked off, tried to compose herself and returned to make the dive. It was a poor one.

The judges awarded her another try. The next one was better.

"When I saw she was going to get the extra chance, I knew I was beaten," the Canadian woman said. The blue-eyed Miss Chandler, tears streaming down her face at the presentation ceremony, finished with 427.62 points. Miss Carruthers had 424.62 and Cynthia McIngvale, of Dallas, was third with 407.85.

It was the first event in swimming and diving, which the United States traditionally dominates and the competition in which the Americans expect to reassert their usual gold medal lead.

Falcons fly by MSAC

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

Quarterback Jim Conley directed a two-pronged attack at MSAC Saturday night as Cerritos College outplayed the Mounties, 31-13, in a South Coast Conference football game.

The South Coast's total offense leader accounted for 110 yards and three touchdowns passing, completing 10 of 13, and running back Marty Campbell added 112 yards on 22 rushes to swamp the Mounties.

MSAC rallied for touchdowns in the second half after the Falcons took a 24-0 halftime lead. But the effort was too little and too late.

In other SCC games, Orange Coast took undisputed possession of first place with a 36-17 win over Fullerton and Santa Ana made its South Coast debut with a 26-7 victory over San Diego Mesa.

Cerritos kept MSAC in its own territory most of the evening while getting good field position of its own.

On the Falcons' first series of the evening they marched 52 yards to a touchdown, using 12 rushing plays to put the ball in the end zone on Conley's one-yard sneak.

The only thing slowing the Falcons down all evening were penalties. The officials walked off 136 yards on 11 penalties against the visitors.

After a 33-yard field goal by kicking specialist Tim Devine, Conley added two more TDs through the air in the second period.

Conley was 9 of 11 in the first half, including a 14-yarder to Ken Devore and a 12-yarder to Kirk Diego for touchdowns. Both scoring plays came on third down plays when it appeared the Mounties had them stopped.

Devore caught five passes for 62 yards and added his second touchdown of the night on a 24-yard reception from Conley in the final 16 seconds.

With reserve quarterback Greg Gane directing the offense in the second half, the Mounties scored twice to make it interesting.

Getting their best field position of the evening at their own 45, Gano directed the Mounties to a touchdown on 10 plays. Two pass interference penalties gave the Mounties a first and goal at the Falcon one-yard line, and fullback Richard Flores punched it in with nine seconds left in the third quarter.

A fumble recovery by Steve Gonzales at the Cerritos 21 set-up MSAC's final TD of the evening. Binky Bonton got it on an eight-yard run. Mando Herrera, who kicked the extra point after the first TD, was wide after Benton's score.

Gano, replacing starter Flavio Garcia, completed 6 of 11 passes for 81 yards. He had long gainers of 24 yards to Tom Peterssen and 19 yards to Don Warren. Peterssen and Warren each caught four passes.

Benton carried the ball 16 times for 50 yards to up his season rushing total to 421 yards, well off his pace of 1974 when he rushed for 1053 yards.

Deano Jr. misses cut

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Dean Martin Jr., son of the American singer, failed to qualify for a $46,000 tennis tournament which begins next week.

Chris Ochel of New South Wales beat the 23-year-old Martin 6-3, 6-2 in Saturday's first round of qualifications. Undaunted by the loss, Martin said: "I have made tennis my career, and as long as I am healthy, I am gonna hang in there."

Sciarra shoots down Cougars

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Few would disagree with Washington State football coach Jim Sweeney.

"The difference in the game was the ability of John Sciarra," Sweeney told reporters following UCLA's 37-23 Pacific-8 Conference victory over the Cougars Saturday.

"They do a good job coaching him and blocking for him, but he is the guy that pulls the trigger," Sweeney said of the Bruin's versatile senior quarterback. "You can see with the naked eye what a difference he makes in the game."

Sciarra, a Heisman trophy candidate, ran and passed for 213 yards against the Cougars and upped his total offense for the season to 1,080 yards.

Although his statistics were impressive, it was Sciarra's ability to come through with the big play that hurt WSU.

"I thought we did a good job shutting him off outside, but they went inside," Sweeney said. "When we adjusted for that, they killed us outside."

The loss was Washington State's fourth straight and dropped it to 0-3 in the conference and 2-4 overall. Sweeney has yet to beat the Bruins. The loss was his eighth straight since he took over at WSU in 1968.

UCLA, now 4-1-1 and 2-0 in the Pac-8, jumped to a 16-0 halftime lead on Eddie Ayers' two-touchdown runs and Brett White's field goal, and never was in trouble in the second half.

"Anytime you can come up here and score 37 points on Washington State you know you've done a few things right," said Dick Vermeil, the Bruins' second year coach.

"The deciding factors were the way we shut them out in the first half and their quarterback getting hurt," Vermeil said.

The Cougars played virtually the entire game without starting quarterback John Hopkins, who suffered an apparent rib injury on the second play from scrimmage. WSU also was without its leading rusher, Vern Chamberlain, who left in the second quarter with a knee injury.

"The players know what they're doing," said Vermeil of his team. "Sciarra executed the Veer excellently. Our players could coach the offense themselves. The difference was that the defense keeps improving."

Wilt pulls a no-show

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Knicks President Michael Burke returned from Los Angeles Saturday after being stood up twice on scheduled meetings with free agent center Wilt Chamberlain.

And he didn't appear pleased, saying he was "extremely irritated."

"We were misled into believing we had a meeting with Chamberlain on Friday, then misled that we had another one on Saturday.

"If Chamberlain wants to talk to us," he continued, "we will pay his way to New York for a Monday meeting. But he is still in Hawaii."

Royal Oak edges surprising Saints

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Undefeated Royal Oak High jumped to an early 12-0 lead, and then held off a gutty San Dimas squad in the fourth quarter for an emotional, hard-fought 12-9 victory Saturday night at Charter Oak High.

Holding a slim 12-7 advantage with 1:33 left to play in the contest, and facing a fourth-and-thirty situation on his team's own 10 yard line, Roman mentor Ken Mussack elected to play it safe by instructing quarterback Jim Garcia to fall back and be tackled in the end zone (by the Saints Don Millet) for a safety.

Royal Oak kicker Greg Grzechowaik booted the ensuing free-kick out of bounds at the San Dimas 39 yard-line, with 1:26 showing on the clock. Since the ball had bounded out of bounds, the official's awarded the Saints' automatic possession at the Roman 40 while, somehow, 14 mysterious seconds had ticked off).

Now, with 1:12 remaining, San Dimas quarterback Steve Loumagne (four-for-six, seventy yards) was in excellent position to drive his unit deep enough into Roman territory for a possible game-tying field-goal. But it was not to be. Loumagne was sacked three consecutive times by an overwhelming Royal Oak defensive rush. Tackle Dave Baur (12 unassisted tackles, five assisted) recorded the first drop, and following another sack (via Grechowaik and Ken Bushere) smothered Loumagne action back at the San Dimas 44.

With three seconds left, Loumagne hit wide receiver Barry Franklin with a 16-yard desperation aerial, as Royal Oak safety Brian Jenson upended Franklin at the Roman 40 to end the game.

It was not one of the most enjoyable evenings for Loumagne, as he was sacked eight times for a total of minus 42 yards.

The Romans made it look easy on their first possession of the evening, driving 90 yards on 11 plays, with Jim Garcia (the game's leading rusher with 53 yards) tossing 14 yards to tight end Doug Dimitruk for the touchdown. Later in the second quarter, fullback Chris Lancaster capped a 62-yard march, bolting up the middle for the last 13 yards and Royal Oak's second and final score.

Daniel leads Owl runaway

ESCONDIDO — Citrus College quarterback Herb Daniel demolished Mission Conference rival Palomar here Saturday night, throwing three touchdown passes and scoring once himself as the Owls posted an easy 34-0 victory. Citrus now has five wins without a loss on the season.

Daniel got things going early in the first quarter when he raced through the Palomar defense for a 23-yard touchdown and Henry Limahelu added the extra point.

A fifty 50-yard pass from Daniel to John Krawcazyk and a 10-yard connection to running back Roy Prather gave Citrus two more first-quarter touchdowns and a 21-0 lead at the end of the period.

But Daniel was still not through with his first-half scoring barrage. He passed to Dan Farrel for a 12-yard TD in the second period and, when Limahelu missed the PAT attempt, the Owls took a 27-0 lead into the lockerroom.

Prather scored the only touchdown of the second half on a two-yard run in the third quarter, and Limahelu's fourth successful kick in five tries finalized the score at 34-0.

Daniel finished the game with 165 yards passing, hitting on nine of 13 tries. Prather carried 18 times for the Owls and chewed up 148 yards.

Citrus gained 232 yards rushing and 165 passing for a total offense of 397, while the losers rushed for 41 and passed for 146 for a total of 187.

The Owl defense came up with nine quarterback sacks, handing Palomar 50 yards in losses. Coolidge Goodall, formerly of Pomona High, accounted for three of those sacks, two of them unassisted.

Sagehens deal Stags 1st loss

Paul Suter's goal, coming in the 18th minute of a 20-minute overtime period, gave Pomona-Pitzer's soccer team a 1-0 victory over Claremont-Mudd Saturday

The goal, Suter's 11th of the season, enabled the Sagehens (6-0) to take over undisputed possession of first place in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC).

"It was really a hard-fought game," said P-P coach Charles Seward. "It could have gone either way. But we've only allowed one goal in conference play and have scored 25 and our guys were really up for this one."

Pomona-Pitzer, 6-2-0 overall, hosts Redlands Wednesday and travels to Whittier Saturday. Claremont-Mudd, 5-1 in conference play and 5-1-2 overall, hosts Occidental Wednesday and Chapman in a non conference tilt Saturday.

College grid roundup

Akins paces Texas

By The Associated Press

Marty Akins ran for 135 yards and his Texas defensive mates came up with eight Arkansas turnovers Saturday as the Longhorns beat Southwest Conference rival Arkansas 24-18 in a college football game televised throughout most of the country.

Akins guided Texas, ranked eighth nationally, to a 24-3 lead early in the final period. Akins got the first Longhorn touchdown on a one-yard run, Gralyn Wyatt raced 34 yards for the second and Earl Campbell got the third on a two-yard run.

Tackle Brad Shearer pounced on an Arkansas fumble and intercepted a pass to blunt Razorback comeback hopes. Arkansas, which lost five fumbles and had three passes picked off, made it close with a pair of fourth-quarter TDs, the last one coming on a five-yard pass from Scott Bull to Teddy Barnes with 19 seconds left.

Texas is now 5-1, Arkansas is 4-2.

Elsewhere, Missouri was the only member of the top ten to come up short, dropping a 31-20 decision to Big Eight rival Colorado. The Tigers, ranked 10th, raced to 17-3 early in the third quarter but then the Buffaloes stampeded to four touchdowns, two by tailback Tony Reed, for the victory. Reed picked up 153 yards on 22 carries for the Buffs.

Top-ranked Ohio State routed Wisconsin 62-0; No. 2 Oklahoma beat surprisingly stubborn Kansas State 25-3; No. 3 Southern Cal got by winless Oregon 17-3; No. 4 Nebraska held off Oklahoma State 28-20, and No. 5 Texas A&M barely escaped with a 14-6 victory over winless Texas Christian.

No. 6 Alabama belted No. 16 Tennessee 30-7; No. 7 Michigan crushed Northwestern 69-0, and No. 9 Penn State topped Syracuse 19-7.

In the second ten, No. 11 Arizona State ripped Colorado State 33-3; No. 14 Florida manhandled Florida State 34-8; No. 15 Notre Dame rallied to edge Air Force 31-30; No. 17 Michigan State bombed Minnesota, and No. 18 UCLA topped Washington State 37-23.

Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin ran for 107 yards in 15 tries, running his string of consecutive 100-yard efforts to 27, and fullback Pete Johnson, the nation's top scorer, got a pair of short-yardage touchdowns for Ohio State. Horace Ivory scored from five yards out and Steve Davis tossed a 33-yard TD pass to Victor Hicks as Oklahoma ran its unbeaten string to 35 games.

Panthers come back

RIVERSIDE — Chaffey College evened its Mission Conference record at 1-1 here Saturday night with a come-from-behind, 17-13 win over Riverside City College.

Riverside had a 13-10 lead when Rick Hongola of the Panthers fell on a fumble at the Riverside 38-yard line with 5:01 left in the game. Bill Childers, who replaced starting quarterback Jamie Broecker in the second quarter when Broecker was blindsided, took advantage of the turnover by marching his team in for the touchdown in seven plays, with Randy Campbell scoring on a two-yard dive.

Chaffey ground out 238 yards rushing, 207 of those in the second half. Passes good for 52 yards gave the Owls a total of 290 yards to 218 for the hosts.

Citrus, 2-3 overall, will host Palomar Saturday.

OCHS beats Whittier

WHITTIER — Ontario Christian's Fred Wind booted a 20-yard field goal in the third quarter to give the Knights a come-from-behind 9-8 win over Whittier Christian Saturday night.

The hosts had scored first on Randy Johnson's TD run and Craig Johnson's two-point PAT in the first quarter. However, the Knights came back to within 8-6 on John Vanderschaaf's touchdown in the second quarter and Wind's FG spelled victory for the locals.

The win gives OCHS a 4-1 season mark. The Knights are now 1-1 in Olympic League action.

Mauch not Charley's man

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley vehemently denied Saturday that he's decided on hiring deposed Montreal Expos manager Gene Mauch to replace fired A's manager Alvin Dark.

The San Francisco Examiner said the owner of the three-time world champion club reacted hotly when told that a news story was afloat that Mauch is the man who will follow Dark.

"That is absolutely not true," said Finley. "I can tell you right now that Mauch has not been hired. No one has been hired. I don't know who is going to be my manager."

The Associated Press did not report that Mauch had been hired. However, the Birmingham Post-Herald said he had and other news media also reported it.

Finley said he is considering "several well qualified individuals," but that it could be some time before he makes a decision.

"I am in no hurry," said Finley. "I've got all winter to decide, although it is possible that I could name my man next week. Or next month. I just don't know."

Mauch was fired this month by the Montreal Expos, whom he had managed for seven years after spending nine years with the Philadelphia Phils.

While denying he was picking Mauch, Finley confirmed that he notified Dark Thursday morning that he wasn't being continued. Finley declined to expand on his reasons for cutting Dark, although it has been widely reported that Finley was less than pleased to hear that Dark predicted in a church that his boss was "going to hell."

Dark called a news conference Friday night to explain his remarks. Dark quoted himself as saying that anyone who didn't accept Christ as their personal savior was going to hell.

"I also said, 'if Charlie Finley doesn't accept Jesus Christ as his personal savior, then he is also going to hell,'" said Dark.

Dark explained that Finley telephoned him Thursday morning and said, "'I am not going to rehire you for 1976. Do you have any questions?'"

Dark said he responded that no explanation was owed him "and all I can do is wish you the best."

Lundquist is critical

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Harness racing owner-trainer C. Ray Lundquist was reported in critical condition Friday from injuries suffered in a training accident Thursday at Hollywood Park, officials said.

California's Steve Bartkowski not only led 1974 major collegians in passing but he had only seven interceptions in 325 passes.

CLC routs Leos

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne met Cal Lutheran Saturday and survived.

Even that was a major success the way greenclad jerseys were being laid out on the playing field.

Fortunately there were no serious injuries as far as is known. When the gun sounded to end the slaughter, it was a 46-12 win for the Kingsmen and the game was more one sided than even that one-sided score would indicate.

"They're even better than they were last year," coach Roland Ortmayer said. "They're just an excellent small college football team.

"They don't make mistakes and they took advantage of ours. We weren't able to block them successfully and frequently we weren't able to tackle them successfully. They broke tackles offensively and threw off our blocks defensively."

The Kingsmen are a mechanic's delight. The team is an almost perfectly functioning machine. Now 5-0, CLC hosts USIU Saturday. La Verne (2-3) opens conference play at Redlands Saturday night.

Offensively the CLC players ran through, over an around the Leopards' defense. The passing was sharp and the catches outstanding.

CLC scored the first three times it got the ball and five out of the first six. The score was 29-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Cal Lutheran coach Bob Shoupe played his second string the second quarter and still managed to score again. It was 36-0 at the half and 39-0 before the Leos managed to get on the board.

After La Verne recovered a CLC fumble at midfield, Ray VanderKallen gained one yard and then caught a pass from Randy Brown for a 49-yard touchdown.

The Leos' most impressive moments came late in the fourth quarter.

La Verne defenders turned back Cal Lutheran's second string backs seven times from the La Verne eight yard line and would have taken over at the one except for penalty on the Kingsmen that put the ball on the 15.

The Leos with Brown, Ricky Tedford and Corey Meheu all alternating at quarterback, drove 85 yards in 10 plays plus three CLC penalties. Brad Frick plunged over from the one for his first Leo touchdown.

Brown, who needs lots of time to set up and throw, finished the day with five completions in 16 attempts, one touchdown and two interceptions.

Tedford completed one of three of 15 yards. Meheu, a 6-4, 210-pound Hawaiian, connected on all three of his passes for 45 yards.

Curtis Frick got 72 hard-earned yards on 17 carries. Brad had five for 32 yards. VanderKallen nine for 31.

Garland Evans, who carried only twice in the first half for CLC, gained 81 yards on seven carries including a 56-yard touchdown scamper.

Fullback Hank Bauer carried 17 times (four in the first half) for 98 yards. Quarterback Billy Wilson completed seven of 11 passes for 149 yards and three touchdowns. Understudy John Kindred hit on five of seven for 115 yards and two touchdowns.

Shoupe used seven running backs in all as the Kingsmen rushed for 295 yards and passed for 264. La Verne made 148 yards passing and 139 rushing

4 tied in Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Miller Barber, listening to the Texas-Arkansas football game on a transistor radio, shot a 2-under par 70 Saturday to regain a piece of the lead in the Texas Open Golf tournament.

Barber, Richard Crawford, Larry Hinson, and Charles Coody, each finished the third round at nine-under-par for the 7,038-yard, par-72 Woodlake Golf Club course.

"I played better than a 70, but I shot a 70," the bald Barber, a 1952 graduate of Arkansas, said in a hurried news conference. He said he wanted to get back to his hotel room to watch the end of the regionally televised football game.

Just one stroke back of the leaders were Ralph Johnston, Barry Jaeckel, Rod Funseth, and Gary McCord.

Crawford, who played in the same three-some with Barber, said he and Barber talked about the football game all day. "He turned on the radio at the 14th tee," Crawford said.

Crawford shot a 68 and 69 on his first two outings before coming in with a 70 Saturday.

Hinson was the hottest of the golfers Saturday. He tied the Texas Open 18-hole record with an eight-under 64.

Saints win C-C meet

San Dimas High, paced by Perry LaMont's new course record, easily outdistanced Royal Oak 19-42 Saturday in a Hacienda League dual meet.

LaMont recorded a 10:34 time over the S.D. High course, finishing well ahead of runnerup Doug Moore of Royal Oak. The Saints captured the next four places after Moore to nail down the team win.

San Dimas, now 3-0 in Hacienda dual meet action, will try to stay undefeated Wednesday as they face Sierra Vista.

Hawaii juggles lineup

HONOLULU (AP) — Faced with the defections of a halfdozen top players, including two quarterbacks, the financially-troubled Hawaiians did some last minute juggling and signing to go ahead with tonight's World Football League game here against the California Sun. nia Sun.

Rico Cassata and Sonny Sixkiller, who have been alternating the signal-calling chores for the Hawaiians, were officially dumped from the roster after failing to show up for a Friday practice session.

In their place, Coach Mike Giddings signed up rookie Milt Holt, a hometown boy who starred at Harvard, and reassigned defensive back Chuck Detwiler on the other side of the scrimmage line.

Tim Delaney, one of the WFL's leading pass receivers, will not be in uniform for the Sunday game, but has not officially been dropped from the team, Giddings said.

The other players who missed the practices and won't be playing are starting running back Walt Wingard, starting defensive back Lem Burnham and veteran guard Jim Cadile.

Just what happens after Sunday's game remains up in the air and even the Hawaiians officials aren't making any optomistic predictions.

On Friday, player representative Ken Bowman said the team had agreed to a compromise management proposal of one more game at full salary with the terms of the remainder of the season to be negotiated later.

Rams will be trying to silence critics today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Criticism centers on the Los Angeles Rams, who parodoxically have won three straight games, lead their division and hope to get the critics off their backs on Sunday.

If they don't, they'll only be tied for first in the National Football Conference West and share the spot with their foes, the Atlanta Falcons.

Los Angeles and Atlanta battle at the Los Angeles Coliseum at 1:05 p.m. with the Rams favored by two touchdowns even though it took an overtime to decide their latest outing, 13-7 against the winless San Diego Chargers.

With the Rams at 3-1 and the Falcons at 2-2, the game is crucial because it could knot the standings if the Rams don't win.

Coach Chuck Knox of the Rams says he doesn't worry about the criticism, but he can't help but do so. Victories over San Francisco, Baltimore and San Diego were all in close games after the Rams were tabbed as favorites to reach the Super Bowl.

He terms Atlanta a strong team with a fine young quarterback in Steve Bartkowski. Although the rookie from California was listed as questionable for the Rams game, Knox feels he'll play.

"And the Falcons lead the league in rushing," he points out. "They have stabilized since last year, and they beat a good San Francisco 49er team."

A week ago Atlanta downed the 49ers 17-3.

Los Angeles has trouble in its secondary. Al Clark, cornerback who took over for previously injured Charlie Stukes, suffered a broken leg against San Diego and rookie Monte Jackson takes over.

Will the Falcons concentrate on beating Jackson?

"I don't think you can concentrate the way you might have in past years," Knox said. "There are too many different coverages. You don't hear oneon-one much anymore."

Knox fears the Atlanta running attack with veteran Dave Hampton and rookie Woody Thompson.

"They lead the NFC in rushing and we'll have to stop them," the Rams coach declared. Hampton leads the conference with 361 yards on 86 carries while the Rams' Lawrence McCutcheon ranks second with 340 on 72.

Bartkowski has been listed as questionable for the game, and former Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan will be the Falcons' quarterback if Bartkowski is out.

Los Angeles dominates the series against Atlanta and never in the three seasons he's been coaching the Rams had knox been defeated in a Sunday game at the Coliseum.

Last year, the Rams shut out Atlanta 21-0 here.

Bartkowski hurt his left elbow in the San Francisco game. Knox declared the Rams won't aim at the injury should the rookie play this week.

"We've never said go out and injure anyone," Knox declared. "We don't believe in it."

America in Davis victory

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The United States clinched the second round of the 1976 American Zone Davis Cup competition Saturday when Dick Stockton and Erik van Dillen thrashed Venezuelans Humphrey Hose and Jorge Andrew 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

The Americans needed only 68 minutes for their doubles triumph and an unbeatable 3-0 lead over Venezuela in the best of five tennis series.

Jimmy Connors and Roscoe Tanner gave the United States a 2-0 lead in singles matchs on Friday.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLICATION OF PETITION AND NOTICE OF INTENTION TO APPLY ON NAMED DAY FOR ORDER DECLARING STATUS OF NEWSPAPER AS ONE OF GENERAL CIRCULATION

No. EAC-20645

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

In the matter of the petition of MARTIN WEINBERGER to have the standing of the CLAREMONT COURIER as a newspaper of general circulation ascertained and established.

Petitioner MARTIN WEINBERGER alleges:

I. Petitioner is the editor and publisher of the newspaper known as the CLAREMONT COURIER.

II. Said newspaper is a newspaper of general circulation published for the dissemination of local or telegraphic news and intelligence of a general character in Claremont, Los Angeles County, California. The business address of this paper is 112 Harvard Avenue, Claremont, California.

III. Said newspaper has a bona fide subscription list of paying subscribers, numbering 3,500 in Claremont, California, and, elsewhere outside the city, and has an average bi-weekly circulation of 4,250.

IV. Said newspaper has been established and published at regular intervals of not less than weekly in the city and judicial district for which it is seeking adjudication for at least three years preceding the date of adjudication.

V. Said newspaper has a substantial distribution to paid subscribers in the city and judicial district in which it is seeking adjudication. It has maintained a minimum coverage of local or telegraphic news and intelligence of a general character of not less than twenty-five percent of its total inches during each year of the three year period. It has only one principal office of publication and that office is in the city and judicial district for which it is seeking adjudication.

VI. Said newspaper sought and obtained an adjudication that it was a newspaper of general circulation prior hereto, on May 1, 1936, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for a judgment ascertaining and establishing said CLAREMONT COURIER as a newspaper of general circulation as defined in Sections 6000 and 6008 of the Government Code, for the City of Claremont, for the County of Los Angeles, and for the State of California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on October 30, 1975, at 9:00 A.M. or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in Dept. A of the Superior Court, County of Los Angeles, East District, located at 400 Civic Center Plaza, Pomona, California, petitioner intends to apply for an order declaring said newspaper to be a newspaper of general circulation.

Bengals eye revenge against limping Raiders

By Associated Press

Last year at about this time, the Cincinnati Bengals ambled into Oakland and started a slide that plummeted them to mediocrity.

Now the Oakland Raiders are ambling—or limping—into Cincinnati, hoping to end a slight skid of their own. The Bengals want to prolong it a bit and, while they're at it, sample the sweet taste of revenge.

"We were 4-1 when we met them (in 1974) and I told writers that if we could win it, it would be the biggest victory in our history," Cincinnati defensive tackle Ron Carpenter recalled. "I really felt that way."

It looked that way, too, for a while. Then Ken Stabler's last-gasp passing drove Oakland to the Cincinnati doorstep and, on the final play of the game, Charlie Smith plowed in from one yard out to give the Raiders a 30-27 victory.

"That and the injuries really took the heart out of us," Carpenter said. "It started the downhill slide." It ended with the Bengals' season record at 77 while the Raiders, who had also taken a 4-1 record into that game, wound up at 12-2, the National Football League's best record of the season.

Today, the Raiders, following a 42-10 battering in Kansas City, come into Cincinnati with a 3-1 mark while the Bengals are unbeaten. "This is a test," Carpenter says. "We've got momentum going, but beating Oakland would be the start of a new thing for us.

"We figure we'll see Stabler," who has been bothered by a wrenched knee. "Either way, we know it's going to be a ballgame, probably the best of the year."

Stabler thinks the Bengals are going to see him, too. "I want to play," he declared. "I'm the quarterback of this team."

Stabler said the knee bothered him in Kansas City "but I hate to make excuses. I threw alright at times and at other times I didn't. But I'm not going to blame that other stuff (the knee) when we lose 42-10."

In today's other games it s Baltimore at New England, Miami at the New York Jets, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Green Bay at Dallas, Washington at Houston, Philadelphia at St. Louis, Cleveland at Denver, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Detroit at Minnesota, Kansas City at San Diego and New Orleans at San Francisco. On Monday night it's the New York Giants at Buffalo.

The Patriots are still looking for their first victory of the year. They're going against the Colts, who are 1-3 but have played surprisingly close games against Los Angeles, Oakland and Buffalo.

Despite the preseason injuries to their defense, the Dolphins are still No. 2 against the rush and No. 3 against the pass in the American Conference going into their encounter with the Jets, who own the AFC's fourth-best offense.

Chicago has a tough task ahead of it in Pittburgh. The Bears, with the weakest offense in the National Conference, will be trying to halt the Steelers' eight-game winning streak against NFC foes.

The unbeaten Cowboys are No. 1 in NFC defense and are hoping to keep Green Bay winless so they can stay atop the East Division.

The Redskins, trailing Dallas by a game, ventures into "White Shoe" territory. The shoes are on Houston's Billy Johnson, who has run back kickoffs for touchdowns in each of the past two weeks.

The Cardinals, last year's NFC East champs, have slipped to 2-2, two games off Dallas' pace, and need a victory over the Eagles to keep from falling further in the division.

Cleveland, winless, last in AFC defense and by far the most scored-upon team, has the task of trying to turn off Denver. The Rams, on the other hand, are facing Atlanta and trying to find the key to turn on their offense.

Swim team names awards winners

Mt. Baldy Aquatics swim team members were honored by their booster club at an awards banquet held recently. Incoming club president, Tony Morandi, acted as master of ceremonies for the event.

Earning outstanding swimmer awards were 15-year-old Jayne Lloyd and 16-year-old David Oakes in the AAU section.

Kathie Haase, 7, and Rusty Lansford, 11, from the novice team. Lloyd and Oakes were lauded for their outstanding performances in the Southern Pacific AAU Junior Olympics championship meet. Oakes also received recognition for his tenth place finish in the National Junior Olympics. He is the first team member to earn a national ranking. Haase and Lansford won their awards for having compiled outstanding records in novice competition as well as for their steady improvement during the past year.

Mother - of - the - Year awards were given to outgoing president, Dy Anne Burns (AAU) and Mrs. Easton (novice) for their work on behalf of the swimmers.

Team suits for raising the most money per lap went to Christina Ryan and Tom Van Horst.

Both the AAU and novice divisions of Mt. Baldy Aquatics have begun workouts for the winter seasons and welcome new members, ages 5 and older. The teams work out at Upland High, Claremont El Roble Jr. High, Claremont Men's College, and Pomona College Pendleton and Memorial pools.

AAU swimmers are readying for the first meet of the season, to be held Nov. 8 and 9 at Riverside and the annual Turkey Trot A-B meet at Mission Viegjo, Nov. 22 and 23. The novice team will compete in the Arcadia Thanksgiving Turkey Invitational on Nov. 22.

For team information, call (Mrs.) Dolores Weck at 982-3430.

Tee to Cup

Star Time at Ontario

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

A FINE cast of celebrities will tee off at Ontario National when the L.A. Times 500 Celebrity Golf Invitational is conducted on Wednesday, Nov. 19. All proceeds will be donated to the Gary Sanders Memorial Fund. Sanders' widow, Linda, is expecting their second child in November. She has a daughter, Brandie, 3.

The Ontario 500 Festival Association is sponsoring the Invitational in connection with the Big LA Times 500 to be run at Ontario Motor Speedway the following Sunday, Nov. 23.

Previous players in Ontario 500, Festival tourneys include James Garner, Robert Stack, Glenn Davis, Glen Campbell, Max Baer, Jr., Gregg Morris, Buddy Ebsen, Monty Hall, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Bill Reynolds, Jack Albertson, Bill Sharman, Happy Hairston, Buddy Lester, Jack Carter, Tom Harmon, Jim Brown, John Agar, Tom Kelly, Jackie Coogan, Ed Nelson, Buddy Rogers, Bob Boyd, Bob Wilke, Donna Caponi Young, Parnelli Jones and Lloyd Ruby.

Arlyn Rudolph is tournament chairman and Ray Echols is the host PGA professional at Ontario National. Sponsors (at a $150 tax deductible entry fee) are invited to join the celebrities, sports figures, sportwriters and telecasters in the 18-hole shotgun tournament beginning at 9 a.m. Ontario Olds dealer, Graydon Murphey, is donating a hole-in-one prize, an Olds Starfire.

Green fees, golf cart, trophies and prizes, two Victory Circle tickets for the 500 stock car race and dinner are included in the entry fee.

More information may be obtained by writing the Ontario 500 Festival Association, P.O. Box 31, 517 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario, 91761 or phoning (714) 984-2458.

Top 60—tough fight

AMONG TOURING professionals, the question more frequently asked is, "What will it take to make the Top 60?" not, "How much will it take to be the year's leading money winner?"

Speculation about the Top 60 starts in the spring. Every year the race for one of the coveted positions is one of the tightest and most interesting on the PGA Tour. By finishing in 60th position or better on the Official Money List, a player is exempt from qualifying for all regular Tour events the following year.

The $125,000 San Antonio-Texas Open this weekend is the final tournament in which official money will be awarded.

Taking a close look at the race, here is how they stand from the 55th through 64th positions:

*55	Wally Armstrong	$43,828
56.	Art Wall	$43,589
57.	Andy North	$43,037
58.	Steve Melnyk	$43,014
*59.	Gary McCord	$41,335
60.	Mike Hill	$40,883
*61.	Mike Morley	$40,877
62.	Tom Shaw	$39,948
*63.	Larry Nelson	$39,810
64.	Bobby Cole	$39,303

*Denotes first time in Top 60.

LASSETTA HIEB won low gross in the recent La Mancha Women's Club If Tournament. Alta Hutchins won low net in flight one.

Other winners were Virginia Block and Mae Extale, 2nd flight; Mae Wellborn and Marie Downing, 3rd flight; Belva Stiles and Sue Tennyson, Toppers.

Diamond Bar divots

CONGRATULATIONS are in order to the Number 2 team at Diamond Bar (13-14 handicappers) which captured the Los Angeles area team play title recently. Team members are Earl Taylor, Mike Corsentino, Ralph Gibson, Ernie Amos, Alex Jiminez and Joe Sifuentes Sr. Alternates are Deb Wolfburger and Andy Morris.

* * *

In the recent Pro-President tourney involving presidents and professionals at Southland courses, the Diamond Bar team of Howard Smith and Al Stern tied for first, then lost in a five team playoff, but finished in third spot. Stern, an 11 handicapper, fired a fine 82 over the Knollwood layout.

Howard Smith predicts this year's play at D.B. will break all previous records. He expects more than 90,000 rounds to be played during 1975. Previous high was 82,000 in 1974.

Warning: don't play against D.B.'s fine low handicapper Carl Safe. He's fired two flashy 69s in the past few weeks.

Sanders Memorial

THE FIRST Gary Sanders Memorial Collegiate Golf Invitational will be held Oct. 27-28 at Silver Lakes Resort, announced Al Geiberger, director of golf at this high-desert 27-hole golf complex.

"We think it's most appropriate to dedicate this tournament to perpetuate the memory of Gary Sanders," said Geiberger. Sanders was a former three-time All American from USC who died of cancer at the age of 25 last Aug. 1.

Seventeen teams have been invited to compete, including Pomona, USC, UCLA, U.S. International U., Cal State Northridge, San Diego State, UC Irvine, UC Riverside, San Bernardino Valley College, Victorville Junior College, Barstow College, UC Santa Barbara, Cal State Los Angeles, Cal State Long Beach, Cal State Fullerton, Redlands, Loyola and Fresno State.

The first 36-holes of the 54-hole event will be played on Monday, Oct. 27, and the final 18 on Tuesday. Four low scores of the six-man teams will count to determine the champion.

Silver Lakes Resort is located 116 miles northeast of Los Angeles in the Adelanto area, just off Highway 395.

Cancer Scramble

BOB STEINBRINCK, assistant news director of radio station KMPC, will play a dual role when the Riverside County chapter of the American Cancer Society stages its "Scramble for Fun for Cancer" at Jurupa Hills Country Club on Nov. 5.

The unique golf event, played in mixed male and female sixsomes on a best ball "and then some" basis, is expected to be a major fund raiser for the Cancer Society chapter.

Additional information about entering the Scrambles is available from Bob Marks at (714) 682-2150.

NBA season starts Thursday

Lakers set to challenge Golden State

By Associated Press

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is in Los Angeles, Charlie Scott is in Boston, George McGinnis is in Philadelphia, Dave Bing is in Washington — and Wilt Chamberlain is in limbo. But the National Basketball Association championship rests with the Golden State Warriors, and Coach Al Attles plans to keep it there for a while.

"We are a very good basketball team," maintains Attles, whose club—Rick Barry, Rookie of the Year Keith (now Jamaal) Wilkes and a host of names known only to the most avid boxscore reader—surprised the oddsmakers and stunned the Washington Bullets by sweeping the playoff finals in four straight last spring.

"Our players want to earn the right to be considered a great basketball team," adds Attles. "The only way we can achieve this is to repeat as champions."

On paper, the Warriors wouldn't figure to have much of a chance at successfully defending their title as the NBA this week launches its 30th season and its first under Commissioner Larry O'Brien, who succeeded Walter Kennedy over the summer.

Washington is as imposing as ever, perhaps even more so thanks to the addition of Bing; Boston and Buffalo are both championship caliber clubs; Los Angeles and Philadelphia will be bolstered by the addition of superstars Abdul-Jabbar and McGinnis, and a number of other clubs also strengthened themselves in the off-season.

But Attles and his troops showed last season that basketball is played on a hardwood floor, not on paper.

"Basketball is the epitome of team sport, and we've got players who complement one another for the sake of the team," explained Barry, the team's leader. "Team success is what everyone here is after."

And team success is what Attles achieved, shuttling players in and out of the lineup so frequently that by the end of the game the trainer had a hamper full of sweaty uniforms.

Golden State's spirited playoff victory shook up a lot of people around the NBA. Even Boston and Washington, with the best won-lost records in the league, moved to strengthen themselves in the off-season.

Boston Celtics major domo Red Auerbach raised quite a few eyebrows when he reached out to Phoenix to obtain Charlie Scott as a backcourt replacement for veteran Don Chaney, who jumped to the rival American Basketball Association. Scott, who possesses a wealth of talent, had been criticized as something less than a team player while with the Suns. But given the Celtics' winning tradition and talented corps of veterans, Scott could find a happy home in Boston.

Washington, which blew the lead in each of the four playoff games with Golden State, dealt playmaker Kevin Porter to Detroit for Bing, the veteran whom Coach K.C. Jones hopes will be a stabilizing influence on backcourtmate Phil Chenier and the rest of the Bullets.

The 76ers, winners of just nine games three years ago, shelled out some $3 million to sign McGinnis, one of the premier forwards in the game, away from the ABA's Indiana Pacers. They then cleaned out the piggy bank for the signatures of Lloyd Free, Joe Bryant and high school whiz Darryl Dawkins. Add them to a nucleus of Billy Cunningham, Doug Collins, Fred Carter and Steve Mix, and things should be interesting in the City of Brotherly Love.

The biggest move of the off-season, however, was the one which sent Abdul-Jabbar, the dominant force in the game, from the Bucks to the Lakers.

Both clubs finished last in their divisions; both felt something drastic had to be done. Abdul-Jabbar said he wan't happy in Milwaukee, so the Bucks obliged by sending him to the Lakers for four players— center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters and two first-round draft choices, forward Dave Meyers and guard Junior Bridgeman.

"In my opinion, he is the best basketball player in the world today, and as far as I know he could be the best basketball player of all time," said Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke, who will be signing Abdul-Jabbar's $500,000-a-year paychecks for the next five seasons.

Chamberlain, meanwhile, says he wants to fulfill his contractual obligation to the Los Angeles Lakers, to whom he apparantly owes one year's services for $450,000. The Lakers say they don't want Wilt; the New York Knicks say they do. The situation is unresolved, though it's doubtful the Lakers will pay $450,000 to a backup center.

SUPERSTAR SERENADE — Frank Sinatra and Bob Hope break up over the duet by John Wayne and Bing Crosby during the taping of "Bob Hope's Quarter-Century of Comedy" at the NBC studios in Los Angeles Wednesday night. The two-hour salute to Hope will be aired at 8 p.m. Friday. Taking part will be more than 100 celebrities, including Carol Burnett, Lucille Ball, George Burns, Johnny Carson, Perry Como, Sammy Davis Jr. and Jimmy Durante.

Photo show

The Southern California International Photo Show, one of the largest camera and Photographic arts expositions in the country, will be held Thursday through next Sunday at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

The show will be a return engagement in Southern California for the International Photo Show, which has been produced in 16 cities in the last four years.

The four-day show will provide visitors with a wide variety of Photographic features and events. It will include an extensive display of the latest Photographic equipment, demonstrated by factory representatives; free camera and accessory check-ups; the nation's largest and most diverse photo gallery; a lecture series exploring photography as an art and as a science, and a wide variety of special events.

The photo gallery will include exhibits from IPOSA's permanent collection and some of the finest work of amateur and professional photographers from Southern California.

Williams set in 'Dickens'

Emlyn Williams, British actor, author and director, will present his one-man show as Charles Dickens in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 12 and 13.

Clive Barnes of the New York Times has called it "Triumphant, a uniquely rich performance."

Williams, in a make-up that makes him look uncannily like the great author, uses an exact copy of the desk employed by Dickens on his tours. The comic, dramatic presentations are enhanced by Dickens' water glass, white gloves and red geranium boutonniere.

The program, in which Williams presents dozens of characters, will include scenes from "Our Mutual Friend," "Christmas Stories," "Sketches by Boz," "Martin Chuzzlewit," "Dombey and Son," "Little Dorrit," "A Tale of Two Cities" and "The Uncommercial Traveller."

Tickets are available at the box office and Mutual and Liberty agencies. Telephone information is available at 626-4523.

35,000 acres

The world's largest single wheat field was probably one of more than 35,000 acres, sown in 1951 near Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada.

The 1914 Buick was the first American car to feature an electric starter and electric lights.

LINDA BLAIR, 17-year-old star of "The Exorcist," has made TV movies in which she was a teenage drunk, a delinquent, and a kidnap victim, but she does not feel she has been typecast. Her next movie: "The Exorcist, Part II."

Trio to play at Bridges Hall

Violinist Marilyn Reifsnyder, cellist Elmer Tolsted and pianist Harley Reifsnyder will present a concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 3 p.m. next Sunday. Admission is free.

Works to be played are Beethoven's Trio No. 5 in D Major, Schubert's Trio in B Flat Major and Trio by Ravel.

Mrs. Reifsnyder graduated from Pomona College in 1948, where she served as concertmistress of the college orchestra. Her husband, Harley, currently a faculty member at both Pomona College and Mt. San Antonio College, graduated from Pomona College in 1947.

Tolsted, professor of mathematics at Pomona College, has appeared frequently as cello soloist and in chamber music. Both Reifsnyder and Tolsted served as president of the Valley Chamber Music Society following the retirement of the late Lee Pattison, founder of the society.

The concert will mark the trio's first public appearance in recent years. They began playing as a trio in 1947 and won the Coleman Chamber Music Competition in 1948 under the coaching of Kenneth Fiske, long-time orchestra and chamber music director at Pomona College. Mrs. Reifsnyder was seriously injured some years ago in an automobile accident.

ZUBIN MEHTA will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic with Artur Rubinstein as piano soloist in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 8. The concert is a benefit for the Music Center United Fund.

French film booked

"Le Deuxieme Souffle" (The Second Breath), by French director Jean-Pierre Melville, will be shown in the Humanities Center Auditorium of Scripps College at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 30. Admission is free.

The film starring Lino Ventura, is in French with English subtitles.

Melville, who died in 1973, is little known outside of France but is regarded by many "Nouvelle vague" filmmakers with respect and admiration. Of all French directors, he was most influenced by the American "Film noir" of the 1940's and early 1950's. His films deal with gangsters and police, false friendship and betrayal and the absence of a clear line between good and evil. They show great affinities to such American movies as "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Asphalt Jungle."

"Le Deuxieme Souffle" is being shown at Scripps under the auspices of the Scripps French faculty.

Prestige homes offered

LEWIS HOME — This drawing depicts one of the homes offered for sale at Lewis Homes Prestige Series in Upland. The four and five bedroom homes include refrigerated air conditioning. The fourth unit was recently opened.

Homes in the new Upland development include everything the company has learned over the years in homebuilding, said Richard Lewis, president of Lewis Homes.

"We believe these homes are not to be equalled anywhere in Southern California on a comparable price range. The Lewis Homes Prestige Series is our proudest achievement," he added.

The project is located on San Antonio Avenue and 22nd Street, an area for business executives and professional people.

The one and two story homes have from 2,474 to 2,801 square feet of floor space. They are built on 15,000 square foot lots. They are priced under $70,000.

"Although construction has just started on the fourth unit, the homes are selling well," said Lewis. "Since it didn't take long to sell all of the 100 homes in the first three units, we anticipate an equally rapid sell-out period. Eleven of the 35 homes in the fourth unit have been sold."

Buyers have a choice of four or five bedrooms and nine exterior elevations. The homes feature cedar shake roofs, three car garages, balconies or large roof decks off the master bedroom suites, Italian ceramic tile entry floors, formal dining rooms, wet bars, and shag carpeting which extends even into the wardrobe closets of all bedrooms.

The homes also have mirrored wardrobe doors in the master bedroom suites, custom designed fireplaces, ceramic tile kitchen counters, microwave ovens, regular self-cleaning ovens and refrigerated air conditioning.

To view these homes, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to the Mountain Avenue exit in Ontario, drive north to Foothill Boulevard, east to San Antonio Avenue, north to 22nd Street and then west to the model homes. These are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

Level with broker when seeking home

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

House shoppers "should level with real estate brokers." Concealing information on housing needs can be a waste of time for everybody.

That advice comes from Betty Ann Rake of Chicago who tries to find homes for employes who are transferred by 80 corporations. She and her staff locate about 700 houses a year, working with local brokers.

"Some people look at homes costing far more than they can afford. It doesn't condition them for the kind of house they can buy and it makes them unhappy. Then, too, some people do not want to throw money into a house — they might have children in college or perhaps they want to travel or do other things with their money. Understandable, but why not say so?"

About one out of three transferees is helped by employers, maintains Miss Rake, who is head of the home-finding department of the Employer Transfer Corp. Another 300,000 or so are on their own and can use all the help they can get.

"The first step should be to contact a boss or coworkers at the new location who could recommend real estate brokers. The broker can do a lot of advance screening for the transferee if he knows what is needed. A telephone call to the broker can set him straight."

But you don't want to stop there, she says. Your house hunting is just beginning. She makes these suggestions from her own experience:

"No matter how much you can spend it is important to find a community where you fit in. Even if you can afford to live in a particular area, it might have a closed set that will shut you out. Ten miles away might be the delightful spot that would make you happy. It is something the real estate person would know.

"If you are moving from a small town and your family relates to it, it may be important to find a community with small-town flavor. Even a lot of metros have small-town atmosphere in some neighborhoods — but you may have to dig to find it.

"Lifestyles continue to be important in planning a move. One man being transferred had two kids who were fantastic swimmers. They had to be in a community where there were swimming pools so their avid interest could be continued. It may take a while to find such a place.

"On your own, drive around town a couple of days looking at an area being considered. Visit shopkeepers and inquire how business is going — you don't want to move into an area that has depreciated. Knock on doors in a neighborhood being considered and ask prospective neighbors what they think of an area. You might turn up all sorts of things.

"Visit the schools in the community. Talk to the principal. Ask if you can sit in some classes. How is the school kept? The attitude of the teachers? Do the children look happy? Well-behaved? Would you want your child to go to that school?"

If the land looks low, visit the town hall and ask to see maps of flood plains.

"Visit a bank's mortgage loan officer. Ask what he considers a good area. In fact, he might be just the one to consult about a real estate broker," she advises.

Tell the broker what you need and how much you can pay. If you absolutely need a basement, you should relay the information. A lot of time can be spent trying to locate houses. You should look for a house that suits your needs. Most transferees want newer houses rather than old ones that require work. They should point out that fact, she suggests.

Some brokers can be very accommodating and useful, meeting an employe and his family at the airport when they arrive on a house-hunting trip.

"The broker should really talk to the woman as well as the man of the family," says Miss Rake. The man knows what he wants, but the woman will know many more things about the family's needs, no doubt, little bits of information that might not occur to her husband.

In addition to house prices, downpayments, interest rates and mortgage terms available in a community, a broker should have data on taxes, schools, transportation and general community information, she explained.

Sales plaque given

Eleanor McCune of the Herbert Hawkins Realtors office in Upland has been awarded a plaque as Region 1 top earner for the third quarter this year.

Her earnings were $13,500 for the three month period. She has also been a member of the firm's "$1 million Club" for two years.

Another award was given to Wilma Allen of Hacienda Heights for being top lister for the region during the same quarter.

Alhambra was identified as the top producing office for the region and the entire company. Sales reach $6.5 million for the three month period. The Glendora branch office had quarter sales of $3.1 million.

Del Ranchos Estates holds grand opening

The Del Rancho Estates is holding a grand opening for its three and four bedroom homes in Ontario.

The homes, priced from $34,950 to $35,950, are located near Palmetto Avenue and Philadelphia Street.

Built by the Mize Co., the homes feature air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpet, vinyl asbestos floor tile in the kitchens and bathrooms, insulated walls and ceilings, built in ranges, continuous-cleaning ovens, dishwashers, disposals, storage pantries, and spcious family-dining rooms adjacent to the kitchens.

The bedrooms are secluded to one side of the entryways, with each home having two bedrooms. The homes are built on 8,000 square foot lots.

Buyers have a choice of seven exteriors which have brick, stone and wood combined with stucco sidings.

The attached double garages have concrete driveways and feature direct inside access and space for laundry appliances. Front yards are landscaped and sprinkler systems are installed. A block wall serves as a boundary along the rear lot lines and cedar grapestake fencing along the sides can be installed at the buyers' option.

"With construction nearing completion, buyers can actually see their homes and lot for the selection of their choice," said Dwight Mize, the builder.

"For many homebuyers, this is a real advantage over having to visualize the final product from a construction site and a set of blueprints."

The homes are near schools, shopping areas and within easy commuting distance of major employment centers in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, he added.

A visitor's center and sale information office is maintained at the new homes. Representatives of Villa Realty are on the premises daily.

Model homes open

Two furnished model homes are now open at Mountain Villas, an adult community of townhomes in Upland.

The two bedroom homes are priced from $26,995 and the three bedroom homes, from $29,995 to $39,995. These may be purchsed with a five per cent down-payment.

Model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Representatives of Acacia Construction, Inc., will assist home buyers in viewing the homes.

The townhomes, ready for immediate occupancy, are air-conditioned and include drapes, wall-to-wall carpets, insulation and forced air heating.

Kitchens have dishwashers, garbage disposals, gas ranges, ovens and water heaters.

Most plans have enclosed double garages and feature inside service areas or garage laundry space plus storage areas.

The community is landscaped with greenbelt areas surrounding the homes. There is a private recreation area with swimming pool for the residents.

You know what they say about the early bird...

He's the one who catches that proverbial worm.

Well, it's the early homebuyer who often gets the most for his homebuying dollar.

At North Pointe, Armstrong Development Corporation's new community of "country" homes in Upland, building has just started. And, at this stage of construction, a host of money-saving opportunities are available to early buyers.

They're the ones who will have the widest choice of lots, floorplans and exteriors.

They're the ones who will be able to choose their own built-in furnishings and virtually customize their new home. They'll choose the colors and patterns that are just right for them.

By buying early, they're the ones who will be protecting themselves from future price increases, so often dictated by a rise in the cost of building materials.

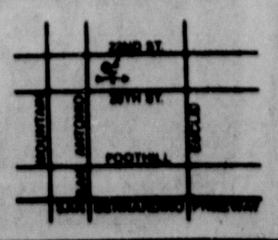

And, they'll be the first to enjoy North Pointe's quality features: Sunken living rooms • formal dining rooms • wet bars • wood-burning fireplaces • attractive indoor planters • central refrigerated air conditioning • step-saving intercoms • modern kitchen appliances • 3-car garages • separate laundry rooms and much, much more.

Visit North Pointe today and see just how much more the "early birds" are getting!

DOG GONE FUNNY

BUGS BUNNY

by Stoffel & Heimdahl

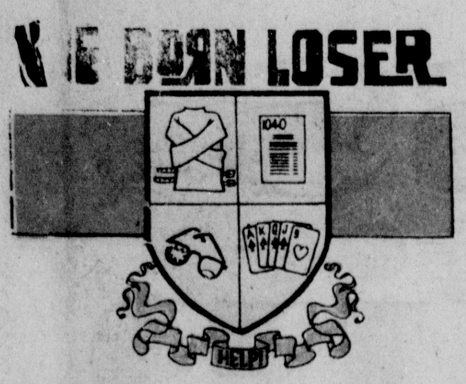

Give 'em the Halloween treat they like best—Wrigley's Gum.

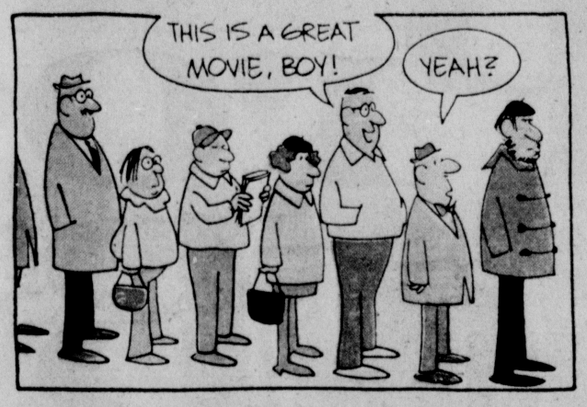

Kids will say, "Thank you," and mean it when you treat 'em to Wrigley's Gum. They love its big, long-lasting flavor. Each stick is individually wrapped and unlike many treats, Wrigley's Gum doesn't spoil young appetites. So this year get plenty of Wrigley's Gum for Halloween.

A SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT FROM Scholastic Magazines, Inc.
Publishers of Instructional Materials for the Classroom

Dear Parent:

If you have kids, aged 8 to 13, here's important news for you (whether or not you are one of the 2,000,000 parents who already purchase Dynamite through your child's teacher):

Dynamite is now available by subscription.

Until now, Dynamite was available only through schools that participate in Scholastic's classroom book club, Arrow. Now your child can have the pleasure of receiving Dynamite at home in his or her name directly from Scholastic, wherever you live.

What is Dynamite? Fun. Excitement. Involvement. A constructive reading experience, planned and published by Scholastic because (a) kids learn better when they enjoy it and (b) even reluctant readers can become eager readers when they are given materials that deal with people, places and things they care about in a way they enjoy.

A magazine "book" that carries no advertising, Dynamite has a sturdy, coated cover and is printed throughout in color on heavy stock. Each Dynamite carries a bound-in poster, plus an assortment of stickers, cutouts and iron-ons.

Whether you purchase it through the classroom or directly by subscription, Dynamite costs 75¢ an issue. (And with a subscription, Scholastic pays all postage and handling charges.) Subscriptions to Dynamite, by the way, makes a particularly fine (and welcome) gift.

The Editors of Dynamite

SUBSCRIBE TO DYNAMITE

YES! Send me a hot new Dynamite each month for the next 9 months at $6.75 (just 75¢ an issue). And Dynamite pays the postage. I've enclosed a check or money order for $6.75 (made out to Dynamite).

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I needed something to hold magazines in my room and my mother suggested using an old bicycle basket of blue-and-white straw that was in the garage. It now stands in a corner of my room, neatly holding all my magazines. — TERRY.

© 1975 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY — To clean drapes or raincoats, wash them in the bathtub, swish around, let drip-dry and there will be few, if any, wrinkles. — MRS. J.W.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Homemade building blocks for small children are simple to make. Collect a number of small boxes in different sizes. Stuff each firmly with tissue or newspaper scraps. Tape tops on, wrap each box in bright, self-adhesive, washable paper. Easy on the child, easy on the budget! — VIRGINIA.

DEAR POLLY — We attached a revolving cup rack to the ceiling in the garage and on this hang our fishing rods. This keeps them out of the way and protects the rods. — E.S.

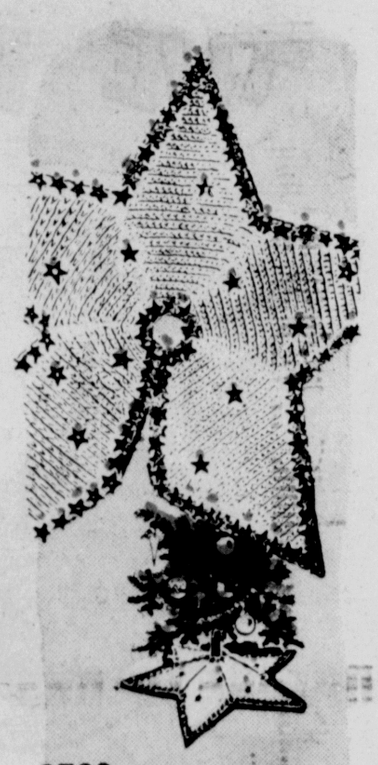

DEAR POLLY — When polyester pants need to be lengthened, the crease is often hard to press out of the let-down hem. I solve this by lengthening them from the top. Sew elastic flat on the top (or if there is a casing it could be let out). If more length is needed, sew elastic to the edge of this top. I find this works beautifully. — MRS. J.L.P.

DEAR POLLY — My plants were not doing well when I was watering them with city water that has chlorine in it. I now catch rainwater to use for this and the plants are green and growing. I put pails out to catch the water when it rains and then pour it in gallon jugs to be used when needed. — JESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — I started making my own bread a few years ago but soon discovered an old injury caused my right hand to tire quickly. I learned to rest my hand by using a rolling pin to stretch the dough as I kneaded it-not rolled it. My hand grew stronger but I still use my rolling pin for part of this stretching and kneading and get better-textured bread. — TRACY.

DEAR POLLY — If your dishwasher has an odor, pour a little baking soda in it and let stand overnight. This washes right out in your regular load of dishes. — PEGGY.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

RANDY NEAL OF RIPLEY, TN, ASKS: "HOW DO SAFETY MATCHES LIGHT?"

SAFETY MATCHES WILL LIGHT ONLY WHEN THEY ARE STRUCK ON THE SPECIALLY PREPARED SURFACE OF THE MATCHBOX. THE SECRET TO SAFETY MATCHES IS THE PHOSPHOROUS PART OF THE FIRING MATERIAL, WHICH IS PUT IN THE STRIKING SURFACE, NOT IN THE MATCHHEAD. WHEN RUBBED, THIS PHOSPHORUS GIVES OFF SPARKS WHICH SET FIRE TO THE MATCH. THE TIPS OF STRIKE-ANYWHERE MATCHES CONTAIN THEIR OWN PHOSPHORUS, HOWEVER, AND CAN BE STRUCK ON ANY ROUGH SURFACE.

* Selections marked with a star are not available in reel tapes

Make this coming Holiday Season the merriest ever by taking advantage of this offer from Columbia! Take your pick of ANY 11 of the records or tapes shown here—they're yours for only $1.86. And just look at the selection you have to choose from...latest best-sellers, oldies but goodies and year-round favorites...music to suit every taste. Each one will make an ideal gift for someone on your Christmas list...or an exciting addition to your very own collection!

To order your 11 records or tapes just mail the application in an envelope, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment. In exchange, you agree to buy 9 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming three years...and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

How the Club operates: every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened...the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases. Act now—mail the application today!

THE GREAT BABE

Susan Clark, a respected actress admired for the grip she gets on the roles she undertakes, went through two months of often agonizing physical preparation to portray Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the world's greatest woman athlete, and the results of Susan's efforts will be seen in the 2-hour CBS Special, "Babe," airing Thursday at 9PM

The slender, articulate Canadian star had to learn to talk like a Texan, lope like a tomboy, race over hurdles, throw javelins and high jump to passably emulate the remarkable Olympic champion of 1932. Then, like Babe herself, had to switch to golf. And through it all, she had to develop from a cocky teenager to the brave and loving wife that Babe became, before her death at age 42. The film spans the period from 1928 to 1956, and touches on Babe's storybook life from the time she was a 14-year-old tomboy with dreams of competing in the "O-lympics;" to an All-America girl basketball player; then a one-woman track team at the women's trials at Evanston, Illinois, prior to the 1932 Olympic Games (where she won two gold and one silver medal). She was invited by sportswriter Grantland Rice to play golf, and after a quick lesson acquitted herself so well she decided to pursue golf. She met George Zaharias at a pro-celebrity golf match during a Los Angeles Open and the two fell in love. Finally after an operation for cancer, Babe went back on the golf circuit to accomplish the greatest win of her life—the U.S. Women's Open in 1954.

THE DOCTOR TAKES A BRIDE

Dr. Welby looks on as Janet Blake Kiley cuts the wedding cake following her marriage to Dr. Steven Kiley.

It was one of those hazy Southern California mornings when the sun was just winning its battle of burning off the fog along the Pacific Coast. A procession of a dozen automobiles, along with a phalanx of camera and equipment trucks, traveled from Hollywood along the shoreline as blue waters began appearing below the cliffs and Catalina Island slowly rose out of the mist some 26 miles out at sea. The motorized safari's destination was Portuguese Bend and particularly, the famed Frank Lloyd Wright-designed Wayfarer's Chapel. The chapel is constructed of glass, surrounded by lush greenery and is a haven for all. It is the perfect setting for a wedding —a wedding such as the much-awaited one of Dr. Steven Kiley and Lang Memorial Hospital's Director of Public Relations, Janet Blake (Pamela Hensley).

The vows will be exchanged Tuesday at 10PM on ABC's Marcus Welby, M.D., with Reverend Johansen (Maurice Hill) officiating. James Brolin (Dr. Kiley), who recently completed playing the role of Clark Gable in the feature film, "Gable and Lombard," confided that the filming of the wedding had an eerie feeling of being real. He stood outside in the garden, sipping champagne and recalling the many Hollywood luminaries who had been married in the chapel since it was built during the '50s.

"I've been trying to get Kiley married for years," Brolin said, grinning, "but each time the writers got him romantically involved, the poor girl would succumb to some illness." He looked into Pamela Hensley's sparkling brown eyes, "Now I'm glad Kiley waited," he said gallantly.

Pamela concurred with Brolin that the ceremony was truly an emotional experience, especially with her TV mother (Natalie Schafer) and Welby's office nurse, Consuelo Lopez, played by Elena Verdugo, dabbing at real tears.

Elena was wearing a beautiful mantilla that her grandmother had made from old lace and brought with her from Spain. Then too, as Elena looked out to sea, she reflected how Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo must have taken notice of the beautiful bluff where they were standing when he discovered the coast in 1542. Later Elena's ancestor, Jose Maria Verdugo, became the first man to receive a California land grant from the King of Spain. The tract of land is now much of the San Fernando Valley.

After the final scene was shot, real cake and champagne were served to the actors, guests and crew. Then series star Robert Young toasted the newlyweds and laughed, "I think it's about time Kiley went out on his own. He's been sponging room and board off the Welby household for seven years. Now he has a beautiful new bride and a whole new life. Besides, as Welby, I'm expecting my daughter's return from South America with my small grandson and they are going to move in with me."
